Aging with HIV in Sub-Saharan Africa Mark Brennan-Ing,Kristen E. Porter,Jennifer E. Kaufman,Catherine MacPhail,Janet Seeley,2022-06-16 With the development of effective antiretroviral therapies ART in the mid 1990s HIV became a treatable although serious condition and people who are adherent to HIV medications can attain normal or near normal life expectancies Because of the success of ART people 50 and older now make up a majority of people with HIV in high income countries and other places where ART is accessible The aging of the HIV epidemic is a global trend that is also being observed in low and middle income countries including countries in sub Saharan Africa where the greatest number of older people with HIV reside 3 7 million While globally over half of older adults with HIV are in sub Saharan Africa we have little information about the circumstances needs and resiliencies of this population which limits our ability to craft effective policy and programmatic responses to aging with HIV in this region At present our understanding of HIV and aging is dominated by information from the U S and Western Europe where the epidemiology of HIV and the infrastructure to provide social care are markedly different than in sub Saharan Africa Aging with HIV in Sub Saharan Africa addresses this gap in our knowledge by providing current research and perspectives on a range of health and psychosocial topics concerning these older adults from across this region This volume provides a unique and timely overview of growing older with HIV in a sub Saharan African context covering such topics as epidemiology health and functioning and social support as well as policy and program implications to support those growing older with HIV There are very few published volumes that address HIV and aging and this is the first book to consider HIV and aging in sub Saharan Africa Most publications in this area focus on HIV and aging in Uganda and South Africa This volume broadens the scope with contributions from authors working in West Africa Botswana and Kenya The range of topics covered here will be useful to professionals in a range of disciplines including psychology epidemiology gerontology sociology health care public health and social work

Bell,2014-01-10 Profiling 30 mask makers from around the world this book explores the motivations and challenges of contemporary artists working to bring the traditional methods and conventions of mask making to an evolving global theatre There are 181 photographs including two sections of color plates which illustrate how the mythic iconography of masks is used in the modern fields of dance mime theatre and storytelling Topics include the ways in which mask artists and performers maintain a sense of universality despite varying local customs the legacies of Italian mask makers Amleto and Donato Sartori and of the California based Dell Arte International School of Physical Theatre and the ways in which traditional approaches in mask artistry continue to influence commercial mask performance ventures in film on Broadway and in touring companies

The Skills Balancing Act in Sub-Saharan Africa Omar Arias,David K. Evans,Indhira

Santos,2019-01-31 Despite strong recent economic growth Sub Saharan Africa has levels of economictransformation poverty reduction and skill development far below those of other regions Smart investments in developing skills aligned with the policy goals of productivity growth inclusion and adaptability can help to accelerate the region s economic transformation inthe 21st century Sub Saharan Africa s growing working age population presents a major opportunity toincrease shared prosperity Countries in the region have invested heavily in building skills public expenditure on education increased sevenfold over the past 30 years and more childrenare in school today than ever before Yet systems for building skills in this population havefallen short and these shortcomings significantly impede economic prospects In half of thecountries fewer than two in every three children complete primary school even fewer reachand complete higher levels of education Learning outcomes have been persistently poor leading to substantial gaps in basic cognitive skills literacy and numeracy among children young people and adults The literacy rate of the adult population is below 50 percent in manycountries functional literacy and numeracy rates are even lower Systemwide change is required to achieve significant progress Multiple agencies at thecentral and local levels are involved in skills development strategies making skills everyone sproblem but no one s responsibility Policies and reforms need to build capacity for evidence based policies and create incentives to align the behaviors of all stakeholders with the pursuitof national skills development goals The Skills Balancing Act in Sub Saharan Africa Investing in Skills for Productivity Inclusivity and Adaptability lays out evidence to inform the policy choices that countries will make in skillinvestments Each chapter addresses a set of specific questions drawing on original analysisand synthesis of existing studies to explore key areas How the skills appropriate to each stage of the life cycle are acquired and whatmarket and institutional failures affect skills formation What systems are needed for individuals to access these skills including familyinvestments private sector institutions schools and other public programs How those systems can be strengthened How the most vulnerable individuals those who fall outside the standard systemsand have missed critical building blocks in skills acquisition can be supported Countries will face trade offs often stark ones that will have distributional impactsand a bearing on their development path Committed leaders reform coalitions and well coordinated policies are essential for taking on the skills balancing act in Sub Saharan Africa      Measuring and Improving Social Impacts Marc J. Epstein, Kristi Yuthas, 2014-03-17 Philanthropic NGOs foundations and corporations face endlessly competing needs when deciding to invest or donate for maximum social impact This book fills an enormous gap by providing a system to measure operationalize and improve any organization s impact investments      Relational Archaeologies Christopher Watts, 2014-04-11 Many of us accept as uncontroversial the belief that the world is comprised of detached and disparate products all of which are reducible to certain substances Of those things that are alive we acknowledge that some have agency while others such as humans have more advanced qualities such as consciousness reason and intentionality So deeply seated is this metaphysical belief along with the related distinctions we draw between subject object mind body and nature culture that many of us tacitly assume past groups approached and apprehended the world in a similar fashion Relational Archaeologies questions how such a view of human beings other than human creatures and things affects our reconstruction of past beliefs and practices It proceeds from the position that in many cases past societies understood their place in the world as positional rather than categorical as persons bound up in reticular arrangements with similar and not so similar forms regardless of their substantive qualities Relational Archaeologies explores this idea by emphasizing how humans animals and things come to exist by virtue of the dynamic and fluid processes of connection and transaction In highlighting various counter Modern notions of what it means to be and how these can be teased apart using archaeological materials contributors provide a range of approaches from primarily theoretical historicized treatments of the topic to practical applications or case studies from the Americas the UK Europe Asia and Australia      Malawi Labour Force Survey, 2013 ,2014
