

PARADIGM SHIFTS IN THE 21ST CENTURY

Old assumptions	New assumptions in the 21 st Century
Management = Business Management	Management principles apply to all organizations.
There is (or should be) 1 right organization structure.	Organization is a tool; find one that fits the task.
There is (or should be) 1 right way to manage people.	Don't manage people; lead them to improve their performance.
Technologies, markets and end-users are fixed/given.	Technologies, users and information crisscross across industries.
Management's scope is legally defined.	Management's scope is operationally defined.
National boundaries define your economic boundaries.	National boundaries are a constraint but don't define your economic boundaries.
Management is internally-focused.	Management involves everything that affects the organization's results.
