

Chapter 10

Using Budgets to for Planning and Coordination

QUESTIONS

- Q10-1 A budget is a quantitative model of the expected management of the organization's resources, operating resources. A budget typically represents the expected money inflows and outflows in order to assess whether the planned operations will meet the organization's financial objectives.
- Q10-2 Flexible budgets are those that vary with the activity level of the firm or organization. Those that do not change with the activity level are capacity-related (or committed or fixed) resources.
- Q10-3 A cost or spending plan is a budget when it provides a summary, in financial terms, of the budget's spending resources.
- Q10-4 In many cases the goal of a family budget is quite similar to the goal of a budget developed for an organization. In those cases, the goal is to help both families and organizations achieve their objectives for allocating their resources wisely. Organizational budgets usually differ from family budgets in that most other budget categories (property, crops, other assets) of operating units and their goals, and number of resources (individuals and subdivisions of budgets) before the final budget is developed.
- Q10-5 A production plan is an outline that identifies proposed production during an interval of time, such as a week, or a month. A production plan is a master category identifier the number of items and their related and unique items and their processes.
- Q10-6 Financial budgets represent projected financial results for an organization. Such budgets include a statement of expected cash flows, projected balance sheet, and a projected income statement. These are often called pre finance financial statements. Operating budgets are plans used to guide the operations of the organization. Such plans include sales, capital spending, production,
