Sage urged PM to order a harsher lockdown

Johnson overruled scientists who called for measures tougher than three-tier system

By Emma Duncanson
 and Catherine Rayner

Prime Minister Boris Johnson overruled government scientists who urged a much harsher lockdown to bring the coronavirus epidemic under control, it has emerged. The Prime Minister's decision to reject the advice of the Scientific Advisory Group for the Government (SAGE) and to implement a three-tier system of restrictions instead, has been described as a "major turning point" in the government's response to the crisis.

Mr Johnson said the new system would simplify the measures and confer further support on businesses. "I am aware, clearly, that we have a lot of businesses that are struggling," he said. "But we have to make sure that we are not overloading the system. We have to make sure that we are not overloading the system. We have to make sure that we are not overloading the system."
