The Oxford History of the Novel in English Simon Gikandi, 2016-10-03 Why did the novel take such a long time to emerge in the colonial world And what cultural work did it come to perform in societies where subjects were not free and modes of social organization diverged from the European cultural centers where the novel gained its form and audience Answering these questions and more Volume 11 The Novel in Africa and the Caribbean since 1950 explores the institutions of cultural production that exerted influence in late colonialism from missionary schools and metropolitan publishers to universities and small presses How these structures provoke and respond to the literary trends and social peculiarities of Africa and the Caribbean impacts not only the writing and reading of novels in those regions but also has a transformative effect on the novel as a global phenomenon Together the volume's 32 contributing experts tell a story about the close relationship between the novel and the project of decolonization and explore the multiple ways in which novels enable readers to imagine communities beyond their own and thus made this form of literature a compelling catalyst for cultural transformation The authors show that even as the novel grows in Africa and the Caribbean as a mark of the elites mastery of European form it becomes the essential instrument for critiquing colonialism and for articulating the new horizons of cultural nationalism Within this historical context the volume examines works by authors such as Chinua Achebe Nadine Gordimer George Lamming Jamaica Kincaid V S Naipaul Zoe Wicomb J M Coetzee and many others

Impossible Missions? Nina Berman, 2004-01-01 This study of the German presence in Africa in the modern period exposes forms of cultural domination that derive from a philosophy of progress and good intentions The humanitarian belief in development however can ultimately lead to the same structural imbalances that an overtly racist model of intervention produces Berman examines five case studies involving German individuals and their respective missions in Africa Max Eyth in Egypt Albert Schweitzer in Gabon Ernst Udet in East Africa Bodo Kirchoff in Somalia and modern day tourists in Kenya These engineers doctors pilots soldiers and tourists believed that their presence and actions would benefit the respective countries and their inhabitants Nevertheless their interventions created profound problems for Africans Nina Berman describes the structures of domination that date back to colonialism but did not disappear with decolonization and are in fact integral to today's global economy She also critiques the avoidance of African material reality in most of the analyses of European images of Africa which has led to a perpetuation of the old model of Africanism By highlighting patterns of domination that did not disappear with decolonization Impossible Missions disputes previous assumptions about why global inequality has not only persisted but increased

HIV and Young People Gary Jones,2015-11-30 Revisiting the thinking on vulnerability to HIV and risk of infection this book provides better understanding by considering the risk of HIV infection alongside notions of personal and collective resilience dignity and humiliation The work shows that young people in the urban slum dignify their world and in doing so establish priorities and draw on a set of references oftentimes intelligible to them alone Moreover humiliation as an interpersonal event adds to a sense of vulnerability and lies closely behind choices directly affecting personal health and livelihood Thus dignity and humiliation are shown for the first time to have a critical role in health seeking and risky behavior related to HIV and this is an area in great need of further research The crucial focus of this work is further emphasized by the rapid growth of urban slums and high rates of HIV among both slum dwellers and young people who continue to bear the brunt of the AIDS epidemic thirty years on This comprehensive literature review provides a compelling argument that the time is right to further explore the nexus of risk and resilience from a people centered perspective Fresh insight is critical to reach the goal of ending AIDS by 2030
