The Return of History Jennifer Welsh, 2016-09-17 In the 2016 CBC Massey Lectures former Special Advisor to the UN Secretary General and international relations specialist Jennifer Welsh delivers a timely intelligent and fascinating analysis of twenty first century geopolitics In 1989 as the Berlin Wall crumbled and the Cold War dissipated the American political commentator Francis Fukuyama wrote a famous essay entitled The End of History which argued that the demise of confrontation between Communism and capitalism and the expansion of Western liberal democracy signalled the endpoint of humanity's sociocultural and political evolution and the path toward a more peaceful world But a quarter of a century after Fukuyama's bold prediction history has returned arbitrary executions attempts to annihilate ethnic and religious minorities the starvation of besieged populations invasion and annexation of territory and the mass movement of refugees and displaced persons It has also witnessed cracks and cleavages within Western liberal democracies as a result of deepening economic inequality The Return of History argues that our own liberal democratic society was not inevitable but that we must all as individual citizens take a more active role in its preservation and growth

A New Working Class Jane Berger, 2021-10-15 For decades civil rights activists fought against employment discrimination and for a greater role for African Americans in municipal decision making As their influence in city halls across the country increased activists took advantage of the Great Society and the government jobs it created on the local level to advance their goals A New Working Class traces efforts by Black public sector workers and their unions to fight for racial and economic justice in Baltimore The public sector became a critical job niche for Black workers especially women a largely unheralded achievement of the civil rights movement A vocal contingent of Black public sector workers pursued the activists goals from their government posts and sought to increase and improve public services They also fought for their rights as workers and won union representation During an era often associated with deindustrialization and union decline Black government workers and their unions were just getting started During the 1970s and 1980s presidents from both political parties pursued policies that imperiled these gains Fighting funding reductions public sector workers and their unions defended the principle that the government has a responsibility to provide for the well being of its residents Federal officials justified their austerity policies the weakening of the welfare state and strengthening of the carceral state by criminalizing Black urban residents including government workers and their unions Meanwhile workers and their unions also faced off against predominately white local officials who responded to austerity pressures by cutting government jobs and services while simultaneously offering tax incentives to businesses and investing in low wage service sector jobs The combination of federal and local policies increased insecurity in hyper segregated and increasingly over policed low income Black neighborhoods leaving residents particularly women to provide themselves or do without services that public sector workers had fought to provide
