

ACHIEVING PRODUCT DEVELOPMENT SUCCESS THROUGH A CONSOLIDATED SIMULATION PLATFORM

January 2018

- Automated design analysis
enabling product development

- Multi-physics simulation
analysis

Report highlights

Traditionally, the engineering challenge has been to execute analysis by applying it separately to evaluate the impact of different design alternatives.

When the need to model multiple engineering disciplines within a simulation is recognized, the complexity and design process increases. For technical accountability, ensuring consistency that designs are delivered, product-level simulation platform offers a solution. platform built on enterprise-level

Supporting a consolidated simulation platform solution built, tested, deployed, and evolved. When implemented, this global enterprise solution enables strategic growth, optimized for multiple disciplines.

As part of the corporate IT strategy, the report provides a high-level overview of the current state of the simulation platform. Specifically, it will look at how the current state of the simulation platform is being leveraged to support the product development process. The report will also look at how the current state of the simulation platform is being leveraged to support the product development process.
