sectarianism Global Identity in Multicultural and International Educational Contexts Nigel Bagnall, 2015-03-27 The increased movement of people globally has changed the face of national and international schooling Higher levels of mobility have resulted from both the willing movement of students and their families with a desire to create a better life and the forced movement of refugee families travelling away from war famine and other extreme circumstances This book explores the idea that the complex connections created by the forces of globalisation have led to a diminishing difference between what were once described as international schools and national schools By examining a selection of responses from students attending international schools in Brazil the United Kingdom France Germany the Philippines and Switzerland the book discusses key issues surrounding identity and cosmopolitan senses of belonging Chapters draw from current literature and recent qualitative research to highlight the concerns that students face within the international school community including social psychological and academic difficulties The interviews provide a rich and unique body of knowledge demonstrating how perceptions of identity and belonging are changing especially with affiliation to a national or a global identity The notion that international students have become global citizens through their affiliation to a global rather than a national identity exhibits a changing and potentially irreversible trend Global Identity in Multicultural and International Educational Contexts will be of key interest to researchers academics and policy makers involved with international schooling and globalised education

French centered conceptions of francophonie as the shaping force of the production and study of the French language literature culture film and art both inside and outside mainland France The traditional view of francophone cultural productions as offshoots of their hexagonal avatar is replaced by a pluricentric conception that reads interrelated aspects of francophonie as products of specific contexts conditions and local ecologies that emerged from post colonial encounters with France and other colonizing powers The twenty one papers grouped into six thematic parts focus on distinctive literary linguistic musical cinematographic and visual forms of expression in geographical areas long defined as the peripheries of the French speaking world the Caribbean the Indian Ocean the Maghreb sub Saharan Africa Quebec and hexagonal cities with a preponderance of immigrant populations These contested sites of French collective identity offer a rich formulation of distinctly local francophone identities that do not fit in with concepts of linguistic and ethnic exclusiveness but are consistent with a pluralistic demographic shift and the true face of Frenchness that is indeed plural

Singleness in Britain, 1960-1990: Identity, Gender and Social Change Emily Priscott, 2020-07-07 This book contributes to an emerging field of research looking at the significance of marital status to debates about identity and gender It examines representations and experiences of single men and women between 1960 and 1990 using a wide variety of sources including digitized British newspapers social research films and lifestyle literature Whilst much existing work focuses on the early to mid 20th centuries such as Katherine Holden's ground breaking work The Shadow of Marriage Singleness in England 1914-1960 this book alternatively examines the impact of the 1960s and the aftermath of changing attitudes to singleness While Holden and others such as Virginia Nicholson in Singled Out focus largely on social status and lived experience often through oral testimony the author is just as interested in finding new ways of looking at gender and sexuality This work starts from the premise that a distinct double standard existed in attitudes towards single men and women which continued even after the wave of legislation to improve women's status during the 1960s Examining these often vastly different expectations reveals a complex web of progress continuity and contradictions highlighting the uneven pace of social change and its frequent compromises and limitations Using theoretical approaches such as feminism and queer theory this work explores the impact of changing gender norms on issues including single fatherhood old maid stereotypes and experiences of homelessness It can be used as a study aid for 20th century British history and gender studies courses and might also interest both established academics and intellectually curious non academic readers The author has made efforts where possible to clearly explain her theoretical approaches and interventions for those who might be unfamiliar with them
