China and Transboundary Water Politics in Asia Hongzhou Zhang,Mingjiang Li,2017-12-14 Water related conflicts have a long history and will continue to be a global and regional problem Asia with 1 5 billion of its people living in shared river basins and with very few transboundary rivers governed by treaties is especially prone to such conflicts The key to mitigating transboundary water conflicts and advancing cooperation in Asia is largely in the hands of China the upstream country for most of Asia's major transboundary rivers To avert the looming water crisis apart from spending billions of dollars on domestic water transfer projects such as the South North Water Diversion Megaproject as well as on water conservancy and pollution abatement China has sought to utilize the water resources of the major rivers that run across borders with neighbouring countries On these transboundary rivers China has built or plans to build large dams for hydroelectricity and major water diversion facilities which has triggered anxiety and complaints from downstream countries and criticism from the international society This book aims to systematically examine the complex reality of water contestations between China and its neighbouring countries It provides a discussion on transboundary hydropolitics beyond the state centric geopolitical perspective to dig into various political institutional legal historical geographical and demographic factors that affect China's policies and practices towards transboundary water issues This book also provides a collection of comparative case studies on China's water resources management on the Mekong River with other five riparian states in the Lower Mekong region the Salween River with Myanmar the Brahmaputra River with India the Amur River with Russia and Mongolia the Illy and Irtysh Rivers with Kazakhstan and the Yalu and Tumen Rivers with North Korea

Furthermore this book sheds light on China's future role in global water governance Trains ,1978 Transit Maps of the World Mark Ovenden,2015-11-03 A completely updated and expanded edition of the cult bestseller featuring subway light rail and streetcar maps from New York to Nizhny Novgorod Transit Maps of the World is the first and only comprehensive collection of historical and current maps of every rapid transit system on earth In glorious colorful graphics Mark Ovenden traces the cartographic history of mass transit including rare and historic maps diagrams and photographs some available for the first time since their original publication Now expanded with thirty six more pages 250 city maps revised from previous editions and listings given from almost a thousand systems in total this is the graphic designer's new bible the transport enthusiast's dream collection and a coffee table essential for everyone who's ever traveled in a city
