The Cambridge Primary Review Research Surveys Robin Alexander, Christine Doddington, John Gray, Linda Hargreaves, Ruth Kershner, 2012-08-06 The Cambridge Primary Review Research Surveys is the outcome of the Cambridge Primary Review England's biggest enquiry into primary education for over forty years. Fully independent of government, it was launched in 2006 to investigate the condition and future of primary education at a time of change and uncertainty and after two decades of almost uninterrupted reform. Ranging over ten broad themes and drawing on a vast array of evidence, the Review published thirty-one interim reports including twenty-eight surveys of published research provoking media headlines and public debate before presenting its final report and recommendations. This book brings together the twenty-eight research surveys specially commissioned from sixty-five leading academics in the areas under scrutiny and now revised and updated to create what is probably the most comprehensive overview and evaluation of research in primary education yet published. A particular feature is the prominence given to international and comparative perspectives. With an introduction from Robin Alexander, the Review's director, the book is divided into eight sections covering children's lives and voices, school, home and community, children's development, learning, diversity and needs, aims, values and contexts for primary education, the structure and content of primary education, outcomes, standards and assessment in primary education, teaching in primary schools, structures and processes, teaching in primary schools, training, development and workforce reform, policy, frameworks, governance, funding, reform and quality assurance. The Cambridge Primary Review Research Surveys is an essential reference tool for professionals, researchers, students and policy makers working in the fields of early years, primary and secondary education.

Research in Mathematics Education in Australasia 2004 - 2007, 2008-01-01 Every four years, beginning in 1984, the Mathematics Education Research Group of Australasia (MERGA) produces a review of Australasian research in mathematics education. The authors of the chapters in this volume have summarised and critiqued research conducted during the period 2004-2007. The research foci for the period are reflected in the chapter titles: Working under tight funding opportunities and the shadow of demanding research accountability measures, the research undertaken has nonetheless been rigorous, far-ranging and at the cutting edge. In bringing this regular review of the best of Australasian mathematics education to a broader international audience for the first time, readers will recognise the outstanding contributions made by Australasian mathematics education researchers and the potential their findings have to inform and direct future directions in the field.

Primary Mathematics and the Developing Professional Alison Millett, Margaret Brown, Mike Askew, 2007-07-11 Abstract This introduction sets the scene for the remainder of the book by considering first the international context of widespread concern about the improvement of numeracy skills This is related to reform movements in the United Kingdom the United States and other countries aimed at modernising primary elementary school mathematics curricula A detailed account is given of the National Numeracy Strategy in England a systemic government imposed response to concern about standards implemented in 1999 2000 This includes a discussion of the alternative meanings of numeracy An earlier initiative sponsored by a United Kingdom charitable trust reacting to concern about primary numeracy was the Leverhulme Numeracy Research Programme This large scale longitudinal study and linked set of case study projects focusing on reasons for low attainment took place during 1997 2002 This book and each other in the same series is based on results of that research The timescale fortuitously enabled the research team to also report on some effects of the systemic reform in the National Numeracy Strategy

1 THE INTERNATIONAL CONTEXT In many countries there are recurring periods of national concern about the low standards of calculation skills shown by children in primary elementary schools Recently these concerns have become more urgent and more political with the publication of international comparisons of mathematical achievement first at secondary and more recently at primary level e g Lapointe Mead Mullis et al 1997
