Archer Taylor's Dictionary of American Proverbs and Proverbial Phrases 1820-1880. It differs from that work and from other standard collections however in that its sources are primarily not literary but instead workaday writings: letters, diaries, histories, travel books, political pamphlets, and the like. The authors represent a wide cross section of the populace from scholars and statesmen to farmers, shopkeepers, sailors, and hunters. Mr. Whiting has combed all the obvious sources and hundreds of out-of-the-way publications of local journals and historical societies. This body of material, because it covers territory that has not been extracted and compiled in a scholarly way before, can justly be said to be the most valuable of all those that Whiting has brought together. According to Albert B. Friedman, "What makes the work important is Whiting's authority: a proverb or proverbial phrase is what BJW thinks is a proverb or proverbial phrase. There is no objective, operative definition of any value no divining rod; his tact, feel, experience determine what's the real thing and what is spurious." THE ITALIAN'S TOUCH (colored version) Carol Marinelli, Yoshiko Hanatsu, 2020-11-24. Fleur, working as a nurse, lives with her seven-year-old son Alex after the death of her husband and goes back to work for the first time in two years, encouraged by her friend at the hospital. On her very first day, she performs botched work. She relives her traumatic experience she went through with her late husband when her patient is brought into the resuscitation room. She fails to do her part and runs out of the room. Newly hired Italian doctor Mario gets angry with her. That night, Mario suddenly pays a visit to her when she is feeling down. This work is originally colored. Lacan on Love Bruce Fink, 2017-09-05. Quintessentially fascinating love intrigues and perplexes us and drives much of what we do in life. As wary as we may be of its illusions and disappointments, many of us fall blindly into its traps and become ensnared. Time and again, deliriously mad excitement turns to disenchantment if not deadening repetition, and we wonder how we shall ever break out of this vicious cycle. Can psychoanalysis, with ample assistance from philosophers, poets, novelists, and songwriters, give us a new perspective on the wellsprings and course of love? Can it help us fathom how and why we are often looking for love in all the wrong places and are fundamentally confused about what love really is? In this lively and wide-ranging exploration of love throughout the ages, Fink argues that it can. Taking within his compass a vast array of traditions from antiquity to the courtly love poets, Christian love, and Romanticism, and providing an in-depth examination of Freud and Lacan on love and libido, Fink unpacks Lacan's paradoxical claim that love is giving what you don't have. He shows how the emptiness or lack we feel within ourselves gets covered over or entwined in love and how it is possible and indeed vital to give something to another that we feel we ourselves don't have. This first-ever commentary on Lacan's Seminar VIII, Transference, provides readers with a clear and systematic introduction to Lacan's views on love. It will be of great value to students and scholars of psychology and of the humanities generally and to analysts of all persuasions. Choices in Relationships David Knox, Caroline Schacht, I.
