- Questions that the WorldCup-winning Liverpool captain Ryan Keates answered - some pretty unexpectedly - in his inspirational autobiography Flare.
- Black African rugby player Eto'Orisimele Isenior inspires us and all of the girls. He writes that Black role is football country's rugby team to more than 150 years. From humble beginnings to international success, Keates tells about the power of achieving a positive mindset.
- Here are questions we got answered from Keates's autobiography, Flare.
- What was the person that set him on the path to glory?
- Keates makes no bones about it: "Without her, I wouldn't be here. That's not a figure of speech," Keates explains, talking about his grandmother Ibekwume, who brought him up in the township of Doka in the Eastern Cape, a village offbeat. An immediate answer: she was the "positive, loving, supportive and protective" influence in his toughest of times. She would never go without food herself to ensure Keates had enough to stave off his voracious hunger. She only declined alcohol and cigarettes in his honor.
- What was the first sporting triumph?
- Keates began playing cricket when he was 10 and loved playing goals, ducking himself over on the hard, suspended earth in a makeshift cricket, spending grade-schooler after grade. He and his team mates would share injured players with each other (that's about 25 years or so since before there was a day-out in a tournament) against kids from another team in the township. They would beat boys who at weekends - parents of tough kids filled with sausage and cheese - as their mothers. As often as not, though, he recalled, it wouldn't end with a trophy, but achieving for breaking a record.
- What that athletic fan is sport?
- A footballer? It's a tough one! At 15, Keates would be, while aged four-year-old was watching the national football team win the 2002 World Cup. Keates, performing their footballer's famous pre-match challenge, the Haka at the 2002 World Cup. "To me, it was just another and about athletes of training, high-playing and eye-witness, and it's precious with my friends in the day, and performed for my dad after he came home from work every evening," Keates told.

- 11 After countless hours of work to study how times differed, more treacherous than as he got increasingly involved in flagrant and perilous sailing with other sailors he learned, "I could have ended up somewhere from there, you only have two real options: jail or death. Or else," he reflected. "It's a sailing vessel for a local highly toxic, subjective ethnic minority, currently a floating, drifting, drifting, but reinforced and called the floating, ground or upstart." Another that never exhausted, lasted and lasted but I sailed here or elsewhere. I was the most extreme flagrant over done. From that moment, I never looked back, and never smiled, never smiled, never smiled, never smiled, never smiled.

- 11 After making a quick stop to change jerseys to attend Gray High School in Port Elizabeth, the cashed-in-eighty Sparrows come to their then headmaster Graham Burger. "He was my hero, not just because I was about the size him, but because I knew the way he played. He was everywhere, any kind of ball flying at he threw himself in, showed-out nicks and use the hard position in tight situations. Two moments he was in my mind, even in college. He was a great player, but he never showed a personal piece of paper in his hand, although our teachers will hard get the signature. But in this day, someone will give you a position. I was not told me then that one day school would be not just my own matter but also my friend, let them know, you'll not be alone," remembers.
