Second Language Pragmatics and English Language Education in East Asia Cynthia Lee, 2020-12-27 This edited collection addresses the link between second language pragmatics including interlanguage and intercultural research and English language education. The chapters use different contemporary research methods and theoretical frameworks such as conversation analysis, language learners as ethnographers, discourse and interactional approaches, and data in contexts either in the region or overseas. The content explores and discusses the significance of learning and teaching of second language L2 pragmatics in language education for learners who use English as a lingua franca for academic and intercultural communication purposes with native and non-native speakers of English, focusing on pragmatic actions, social behaviours, perceptions, and awareness levels in three regions in East Asia: China, Japan, and South Korea. It is an important contribution to the area of second language pragmatics in language education for East Asian learners. It recommends research-informed pedagogies for the learning and teaching of interlanguage or intercultural pragmatics in regions and places where similar cultural beliefs or practices are found. This is an essential read for researchers, language educators, classroom teachers, and readers who are interested in second language pragmatics research and those interested in second language acquisition and English language education in the East Asian context.

Sublating Second Language Research and Practices Manfred Man-fat Wu, 2023-07-31 Wu's book provides an innovative perspective on and recommendations for the major aspects of second language L2 teaching from a Hegelian anthropological philosophical perspective. Language is social in nature and is related to the larger social milieu. Hegelian philosophy of language complements existing research and theories on L2 learning by not only equipping them with a systematic framework but also broadening their scope. In Hegelian philosophy, language not only has its individual and interpersonal dimensions but is also related to the community, society, and morality. The Hegelian perspective also suggests a number of functions of L2 which have either been neglected or rejected by L2 researchers. This book highlights these neglected elements such as intersubjectivity, mutual recognition, universalization, and objectivization of inner subjectivity of individuals as well as moral enhancement. These concepts generate insights on the teaching and learning of L2. Wu's volume also covers how the Hegelian anthropological philosophical perspective can help to re-interpret research results on L2 learner characteristics that are related to L2 learning to date, such as L2 identity and autonomy. The book offers an alternative research paradigm, teaching philosophy, pedagogical implications, and suggestions for scholars, practitioners, and students in the professional field of L2 teaching.
