

Chapter 5

“He had passed visibly through two states and was entering upon a third. After his embarrassment and his unreasoning joy he was consumed with wonder at her presence. He had been full of the idea so long, dreamed it right through to the end, waited with his teeth set, so to speak, at an inconceivable pitch of intensity. Now, in the reaction, he was running down like an over wound clock.”

Post-Celtic Tiger Irish Fiction Eoin Flannery, 2022-04-21 Based on readings of some of the leading literary voices in contemporary Irish writing this book explores how these authors have engaged with the events of Ireland's recent economic boom and the demise of the Celtic Tiger period and how they have portrayed the widespread and contrasting aftermaths. Drawing upon economic literary criticism, affect theory in relation to shame and guilt and the philosophy of debt, this book offers an entirely original suite of perspectives on both established and emerging authors. Through analyses of the work of writers including Donal Ryan, Anne Haverty, Claire Kilroy, Dermot Bolger, Deirdre Madden, Chris Binchy, Peter Cunningham, Justin Quinn and Paul Murray, author Eoin Flannery illuminates their formal and thematic concerns. Paying attention to generic and thematic differences, Flannery's analyses touch upon issues such as the politics of indebtedness, temporality and narrative form, the relevance of affect theory to understandings of Irish culture and society in an age of austerity and the relationship between literary fiction and the mechanics of high finance. Insightful and original, Form, Affect and Debt in Post-Celtic Tiger Irish Fiction provides a seminal intervention in trying to grasp the cultural context and the literature of the Celtic Tiger period and its wake.

INSPIRED! Jeffrey P. Drozdowski, 2017-08-19 The day prior to writing this section, Jeff heard it again. He has been hearing it over and over primarily on the news networks that the country's racial and ethnic background is changing. According to the numbers AND the eyeball test, Jeff believes it. The Pew Research Center states that by 2055 there will be no racial majority in the United States. Jeff Drozdowski has spent most of his life traveling the country and seeing these changes with his own two eyes. There is more to this change than just race and ethnicity. The generation that has the highest percentage of people in the workplace, The Millennials, are considered the most unique generation ever. The way this group looks at life and their acceptance of people the way they are is something that employers need to acknowledge and embrace. After all, great people run great companies. Inspired: How Our Differences Are Changing The Workplace explores how the changes that are going on can be a benefit to all of us, especially at work.

The Worlds of George R.R. Martin Tom Huddleston, 2024-09-24 In the many realms of modern fantasy, there is only one true King and his name is George Raymond Richard Martin. With A Song of Ice and Fire, Martin has created a world on a scale almost unrivalled by any other single writer. Approaching two million words and still evolving, this genuinely epic series of novels with its deeply interlocking narratives, finely crafted drama and enormous range of characters is a creation of extraordinary breadth. So how did a writer best known for short stories come to craft such a gigantic sequence of novels and what is the key to their extraordinary success? What sources, historical, literary and personal, did Martin draw upon in the writing and what inspiration did they give him? The Worlds of George R.R. Martin is an in-depth bringing together of the enormous range of inspirations behind Martin's work, from historical borrowings as wide-ranging as the Roman empire, the Wars of the Roses and the Mongol conquests to diverse literary and mythological texts and Martin's own family experience and biography.
