Mechanism Exploration of Multi-indicator Synthetical Assessment Method DONG QIU, 2025-07-28 The multi indicator synthetical assessment method composite indicator is one of the two basic methods used by economic statistics to solve the additivity issue the other being the value indicator especially when facing the trend of measured welfare turn Its importance is highlighted and it is an indicator tool that cannot be underestimated in the empirical analysis process In the development process of composite indicators it is particularly important to pay attention to the entanglement and clarification of reason and mathematics We should not only prefer the technical approach and focus on improving the mathematical difficulty of the method but also pay attention to the mechanism approach of the method We should also pay attention to the consistency of different composite methods in methodology that is to improve expand deepen and promote the methodology of composite indicators from a systematic visual field Management Principles of Sustainable

Industrial Chemistry Genserik L. L. Reniers, Kenneth Sørensen, Karl Vrancken, 2013-03-20 Approaching sustainability from the perspectives of engineering and multiple scientific disciplines this book incorporates the concepts of intergenerational equity and ecological capabilities while promoting scientific rigor for the analysis of sustainability and the use of appropriate metrics to determine the comparative merits of alternatives The chapters are organized around the key non technological themes of sustainable industrial chemistry and provide an overview of the managerial principles to enhance sustainability in the chemicals sector The book strives to provide an intellectual forum and stimulus for defining the roles chemical engineers can play in achieving sustainable development Suitable for industry and graduate education this is the one stop guide to greener cleaner economically viable and more efficient chemical industries

The Practice of Consumer Exposure Assessment Gerhard Heinemeyer, Matti Jantunen, Pertti Hakkinen, 2020-01-03 This book closes a current gap by providing the scientific basis for consumer exposure assessment in the context of regulatory risk assessment Risk is defined as the likelihood of an event occurring and the severity of its effects The margin between the dose that leads to toxic effects and the actual dose of a chemical is identified by estimating population exposure The objective of this book is to provide an introduction into the scientific principles of consumer exposure assessment and to describe the methods used to estimate doses of chemicals the statistics applied and computer tools needed This is presented through the backgrounds of the special fields in exposure analysis such as exposure via food and by the use of consumer products toys clothing and other items As a general concept human exposure is also understood to include exposure via the environment and from the work setting In this context the specific features of consumer exposure are pointed out and put into the context of regulation in particular food safety chemicals safety REACH and consumer product safety The book is structured into three parts The first part deals with the general concepts of consumer exposure as part of the overall risk analysis framework of risk characterization risk assessment and risk communication It describes the three basic features of exposure assessment i the exposure scenario ii the exposure model and iii the exposure parameters addressing external and internal exposure Also the statistical presentation of data to characterize populations in connection with variability uncertainty and quality of information and the presentation of exposure evaluation results is described The second part deals with the specific issues of exposure assessment exposure via food consumption exposure from use of consumer products household products toys cosmetic products textiles pesticides and others This part also covers methods for acquisition of data for exposure estimations including the relevant information from regulations needed to perform an accurate exposure assessment The third part portrays a prospect for further needs in the development and improvement of consumer exposure assessment as well as international activities and descriptions of the work of institutions that are involved in exposure assessment on the regulatory and scientific level And conversely it creates the rationale for the exposure assessment details necessary to satisfy regulatory needs such as derivation of upper limits and risk management issues

Global Mobile Satellite Communications Theory Stojče Dimov Ilčev, 2016-09-23 This book discusses current theory regarding global mobile satellite communications GMS for maritime land road and rail and aeronautical applications It covers how these can enable connections between moving objects such as ships road and rail vehicles and aircrafts on one hand and on the other ground telecommunications

A Guide to identifying priorities and indicators for restoration monitoring

Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2019-09-25 This guide walks practitioners through seven questions to help them make decisions regarding restoration monitoring First practitioners are asked to determine their restoration goals land use and barriers to sustainability These choices are filtered by constraints and priorities so the practitioner will develop the indicators needed to setup their monitoring framework It provides a framework for identifying indicators Indicators are value laden measures of development performance designed to measure and calibrate progress Environmental indicators are used to provide synthesized knowledge on environmental issues and to highlight the extent of environmental trends They also help to reduce complexity provide important links between science and policy and help decision makers to provide guidance on environmental governance An indicator framework can provide a management tool to help countries develop implementation strategies and allocate resources accordingly to reach restoration goals Tracking progress with indicators can act as a report card to measure progress towards restoration and help ensure the accountability of all stakeholders for achieving the goals The guide uses country case studies to show how a practitioner could answer the questions offering a menu of potential indicators for measuring progress that other monitoring practitioners might find useful Next it highlights the different types of data that can feed into creating an indicator framework depending on resource constraints and information needs Some restoration programs may require fewer cost effective indicators that are collected locally Other programs may be able to integrate small locally collected data with big data from satellite imagery and social media

The Quality of European

Societies

Eduardo Bericat, María Luisa Jiménez-Rodrigo, 2019-05-10 This volume presents a compilation of composite indicators created in order to measure important aspects of the quality of European societies It examines three main questions do Europeans live in good societies and enjoy good lives are European societies becoming better as time passes or is their quality slowly deteriorating is the quality of life of Europe's citizens improving over time or is it gradually and irrecoverably getting worse The volume uses a precise and rigorous system of information to answer these questions and to assess the current situation and monitor the quality of European societies It describes and discusses fourteen key domains and per chapter presents five rankings of EU countries based on composite indicators which are used as one of the best instruments social science has to synthesize a large amount of information and they are especially well suited to measure multidimensional social phenomena The new System of Indices on the Quality of European Societies SIQES presented in this volume offers a very broad and rich empirical overview of more than 70 social composite indicators and their nearly 300 dimensions One of the key findings coming out from the SIQES is that according to the societal quality of European countries there exist five different Europes inside Europe
