Analysis of Radiation by Wire Antennas Over Imperfect Ground Tapan K. Sarkar, 1975 Three user oriented computer programs are presented and described for analyzing radiation from arrays of parallel vertical wires parallel horizontal wires and also arbitrary wire configurations over the surface of an imperfectly conducting earth The first two programs are equipped to treat unequally spaced arrays of wires that can be of different lengths and radii and of arbitrary excitation and loading The effects of the imperfectly conducting earth are accounted for in an essentially exact manner by using the Sommerfeld formulation The third program treats arbitrary wire antennas and incorporates the ground effects approximately by using the reflection coefficient method Computed output consists of current distribution input impedances and field patterns specified by the user

Charge and Exciton Transport through Molecular Wires Laurens D. A. Siebbeles, Ferdinand C. Grozema, 2011-07-18 As functional elements in opto electronic devices approach the single molecule limit conducting organic molecular wires are the appropriate interconnects that enable transport of charges and charge like particles such as excitons within the device Reproducible syntheses and a thorough understanding of the underlying principles are therefore indispensable for applications like even smaller transistors molecular machines and light harvesting materials Bringing together experiment and theory to enable applications in real life devices this handbook and ready reference provides essential information on how to control and direct charge transport Readers can therefore obtain a balanced view of charge and exciton transport covering characterization techniques such as spectroscopy and current measurements together with quantitative models Researchers are thus able to improve the performance of newly developed devices while an additional overview of synthesis methods highlights ways of producing different organic wires Written with the following market in mind chemists molecular physicists materials scientists and electrical engineers
