

Possible answers / Moontlike antwoorde
October / Oktober / November 2005*General Guidelines:

It is important to remember that examiners are assessing the ability to communicate in writing.

When an essay is too long, markers are expected to mark the full essay. No penalty is considered, as candidates will penalise themselves by becoming repetitive and therefore will be penalised for content. Indicate at the bottom : "Essay too long".

In most cases the grid can be used to penalise an essay that is too short.
The essay should be assessed in the usual way taking the following into account:

Essays: 100 to 150 words – no higher than F
 50 to 100 – no higher than G
 Fewer than 50 words – no higher than H

Indicate at the bottom: "Essay too short"

Guard against awarding unrealistically high marks to essays that stand out as being better than the others in a batch. An A essay should be outstanding. Look at the descriptors on the grid – "exceptional development of topic, thought-provoking, striking, unusual, refreshing, excellent command of English, language evokes vivid images, virtually no errors."

Only award an H and 8/9 if the essay is very short (fewer than 50 words), totally irrelevant or unintelligible.

Be objective and allow for the candidate's background and personal views.

Read the topic from the candidate's point of view.

Drop one category for language if no paragraphs.

In letters, the repetition of the salutation in the body of the letter must be penalised by dropping one category for language

Indicate ALL errors by underlining.

Do not underline indiscriminately.

Grammar (includes word order) = _____ (single line)

Spelling = ===== (double line)

Style ~ (wavy line)

Punctuation = draw a circle around the error

Use ticks to indicate striking ideas or language.
