

Model 2 – Random Sampling Method

- a. According to Model 2, what is the probability of selecting a red die in a random draw out of the bag?

The probability of selecting a red die in a random draw out of the bag is 50% (0.5).

- b. Suppose you draw a die from the bag seven times in a row, and each time you get a red die. How does this affect the probability of selecting a red die in a subsequent draw (single draw)?

The probability of selecting a red die is determined by using replacement each time, so the probability is always 0.5. In other words, each time you draw a die, you replace it, so the probability of getting a red die will stay the same. It doesn't matter whether you get a red die seven times in a row.
