The Origin of Higher Taxa T.S. Kemp, 2015-12-16 In the grand sweep of evolution the origin of radically new kinds of organisms in the fossil record is the result of a relatively simple process natural selection marching through the ages Or is it Does Darwinian evolution acting over a sufficiently long period of time really offer a complete explanation or are unusual genetic events and particular environmental and ecological circumstances also involved With The Origin of Higher Taxa Tom Kemp sifts through the layers of paleobiological genetic and ecological evidence on a quest to answer this essential game changing question of biology Looking beyond the microevolutionary force of Darwinian natural selection Kemp enters the realm of macroevolution or evolution above the species level From the origin of mammals to the radiation of flowering plants these large scale patterns such as the rise of novel organismal design adaptive radiations and lineage extinctions encompass the most significant trends and transformations in evolution As macroevolution cannot be studied by direct observation and experiment scientists have to rely on the outcome of evolution as evidence for the processes at work in the form of patterns of species appearances and extinctions in a spotty fossil record and through the nature of species extant today Marshalling a wealth of new fossil and molecular evidence and increasingly sophisticated techniques for their study Kemp here offers a timely and original reinterpretation of how higher taxa such as arthropods mollusks mammals birds and whales evolved a bold new take on the history of life

Evolution Education Around the Globe Hasan Deniz, Lisa A. Borgerding, 2018-06-21 This edited book provides a global view on evolution education It describes the state of evolution education in different countries that are representative of geographical regions around the globe such as Eastern Europe Western Europe North Africa South Africa North America South America Middle East Far East South East Asia Australia and New Zealand Studies in evolution education literature can be divided into three main categories a understanding the interrelationships among cognitive affective epistemological and religious factors that are related to peoples views about evolution b designing implementing evaluating evolution education curriculum that reflects contemporary evolution understanding and c reducing antievolutionary attitudes This volume systematically summarizes the evolution education

literature across these three categories for each country or geographical region The individual chapters thus include common elements that facilitate a cross cultural meta analysis Written for a primarily academic audience this book provides a much needed common background for future evolution education research across the globe The biology of hypogean fishes Aldemaro Romero,2013-06-29 Hypogean cave artesian fishes have fascinated researchers even before they were described in the scientific literature in 1842 Since then a number of scientists have used them to justify their own evolutionary ideas from neo Lamarckism to neo Darwinism from neutral evolution to selectionist approaches Research in recent years has shown that these fishes are much more complex in their adaptations to the subterranean environment than previously believed there are those with features expected from living in total darkness complete blindness and depigmentation and poor in nutrients extremely low metabolic rates others differ very little if any from their epigeal surface ancestors in their morphology and physiology but not so in their behavior Some of them even live in nutrient rich environments Actually one of the most overlooked facets of these animals is that there are more species of hypogean fishes without troglomorphisms blindness depigmentation than with troglomorphic ones The study of these apparently unadapted fishes is providing new insights into our understanding of the evolution of phenotypic characters founding effect behavioral and physiological adaptations The 86 species of troglomorphic fishes described so far belong to 18 different families many of which would hardly fit the notion that they were preadapted to conquer the underground environment Further many troglomorphic species show very little genotypic differentiation when compared with their putative ancestors indicating that massive phenotype changes can be achieved via little genetic reorganization a reorganization that mostly affects regulatory genes These and many other topics are discussed in this volume containing 29 papers written by 41 authors from 9 countries Hopefully this volume will convince many other researchers that hypogean fishes represent a unique opportunity to study a concept in evolutionary biology that is only superficially understood convergent evolution Goa Police SI | 15 Practice

Rodríguez,Eric B. Taylor,2013-03-09 Salvelinus species are one of the most thoroughly studied groups of fishes Many reasons explain this intense interest in charr biology Charrs have a Holarctic distribution encompassing many Asian North American and European countries and occupy diverse marine and freshwater environments Furthermore the current distribution of charr includes areas that were directly influenced by climate and topographic change associated with the many Pleistocene glaciations Undoubtedly these conditions have promoted much of the tremendous morphological ecological and genetic variability and plasticity within Salvelinus species and they make charr very good models to study evolutionary processes in action Many charr species also exhibit demographic characteristics such as slow growth late maturity and life in extreme environments that may increase their susceptibility to extinction from habitat changes and overexploitation especially in depauperate aquatic habitats This vulnerability makes understanding their biology of great relevance to biodiversity and conservation Finally charr are of great cultural commercial and recreational significance to many communities and their intimate linkage with human societies has stimulated much interest in this enigmatic genus This volume comprises a selection of papers presented at the fourth International Charr Symposium held in Trois Rivières Québec Canada from 26 June to 1 July 2000 It includes 31 papers on ecological interactions and behaviour trophic polymorphism movement and migration ecophysiology and evolutionary genetics ecological parasitology environmental stress and conservation These studies cannot cover all recent developments in the ecology behaviour and conservation of Salvelinus species but collecting them into a special volume should bring attention to current research on this important genus and stimulate further work on Salvelinus species Workshops on Business Informatics Research Laila Niedrite,Renate Strazdina,Benkt Wangler,2012-04-05 This book constitutes the refereed and revised proceedings of the workshops and the doctoral consortium co located with the 10th International Conference on Perspectives in Business Informatics Research BIR held in Riga Latvia in October 2011 The four workshops focused on Information Logistics and Knowledge Supply for Viable Enterprises ILOG 2011 Alignment of Business Processes and Security Modeling ABPSM 2011 Intelligent Educational Systems and Technology Enhanced Learning INTEL EDU 2011 and User Oriented Information Integration UOII 2011 The two best papers from the doctoral consortium are also included 21st Century Criminology: A Reference Handbook J.
