Mechanic and Mirror of Science and Art ,1917      The Beginning of Boxing in Britain, 1300-1700 Arly Allen,2020-10-06
Many books have discussed boxing in the ancient world but this is the first to describe how boxing was reborn in the modern world Modern boxing began in the Middle Ages in England as a criminal activity It then became a sport supported by the kings and aristocracy Later it was again outlawed and only in the 20th century has it become a sport popular around the world This book describes how modern boxing began in England as an outgrowth of the native English sense of fair play It demonstrates that boxing was the common man s alternative to the sword duel of honor and argues that boxing and fair play helped Englishmen avoid the revolutions common to France Italy and Germany during the eighteenth nineteenth and twentieth centuries English enthusiasm for boxing largely drove out the pistol and sword duels from English society And although boxing remains a brutal sport it has made England one of the safest countries in the world It also examines how the rituals of boxing developed the meaning of the parade to the ring the meaning of the ring itself why only two men fight at one time why the fighters shake hands before each fight why a boxing match is called a prizefight and why a knock down does not end the bout Its sources include material from medieval manuscripts and its notes and bibliography are extensive

Archive of Tongues Moon Charania, 2023-06-30 In Archive of Tongues Moon Charania explores feminine dispossession and the brown diaspora through a reflection on the life of her mother Drawing on her mother's memories and stories of migration violence sexuality queerness domesticity and the intimate economies of everyday life Charania conceptualizes her mother's tongue as an object of theory and an archive of brown intimate life By presenting a mode of storytelling that is sensual and melancholic piercing and sharp Charania recovers otherwise silenced modes of brown mothers survival disobedience and meaning making that are often only lived out in invisible intimate spaces and too often disappear into them In narrating her mother's tongue as both metaphor for and material reservoir of other ways of knowing

Charania gestures to the afflictions limits and failures of feminist queer and postcolonial scholarly interrogations and the consequences of closing the archive of the brown mother

The Saturday Review of Politics, Literature, Science, Art, and Finance ,1916 Sugar and Spice Jon Stobart, 2016-12-01 Consumers in eighteenth century England were firmly embedded in an expanding world of goods one that incorporated a range of novel foods tobacco chocolate coffee and tea and new supplies of more established commodities including sugar spices and dried fruits Much has been written about the attraction of these goods which went from being novelties or expensive luxuries in the mid seventeenth century to central elements of the British diet a century or so later They have been linked to the rise of Britain as a commercial and imperial power whilst their consumption is seen as transforming many aspects of British society and culture from mealtimes to gender identity Despite this huge significance to ideas of consumer change we know remarkably little about the everyday processes through which groceries were sold bought and consumed In tracing the lines of supply that carried groceries from merchants to consumers Sugar and Spice reveals how changes in retailing and shopping were central to the broader transformation of consumption and consumer practices but also questions established ideas about the motivations underpinning consumer choices It demonstrates the dynamic nature of eighteenth century retailing the importance of advertisements in promoting sales and shaping consumer perceptions and the role of groceries in making shopping an everyday activity At the same time it shows how both retailers and their customers were influenced by the practicalities and pleasures of consumption They were active agents in consumer change shaping their own practices rather than caught up in a single socially inclusive cultural project such as politeness or respectability
