The Struggle for a Multilingual Future Christina P. Davis (Anthropologist), 2020 In The Struggle for a Multilingual Future Christina Davis examines the tension between ethnic conflict and multilingual education policy in the linguistic and social practices of Sri Lankan minority youth Facing a legacy of post independence language and education policies that were among the complex causes of the Sri Lankan civil war 1983-2009 the government has recently sought to promote interethnic integration through trilingual language policies in Sinhala Tamil and English in state schools Integrating ethnographic and linguistic research in and around two schools during the last phase of the war Davis's research shows how despite the intention of the reforms practices on the ground reinforce language based models of ethnicity and sustain ethnic divisions and power inequalities By engaging with the actual experiences of Tamil and Muslim youth Davis demonstrates the difficulties of using language policy to ameliorate ethnic conflict if it does not also address how that conflict is produced and reproduced in everyday talk

Face Perception across the Life-Span Bozana Meinhardt-Injac, Andrea Hildebrandt, 2017-03-17 Face perception is a highly evolved visual skill in humans This complex ability develops across the life span steeply rising in infancy refining across childhood and adolescence reaching highest levels in adulthood and declining in old age As such the development of face perception comprises multiple skills including sensory e.g. mechanisms of holistic configural and featural perception cognitive e.g. memory processing speed attentional control and also emotional and social e.g. reading and interpreting facial expression domains Whereas our understanding of specific functional domains involved in face perception is growing there is further pressing demand for a multidisciplinary approach toward a more integrated view describing how face perception ability relates to and develops with other domains of sensory and cognitive functioning In this research topic we bring together a collection of papers that provide a shot of the current state of the art of theorizing and investigating face perception from the perspective of multiple ability domains We would like to thank all authors for their valuable contributions that advanced our understanding of face and emotion perception across development

The Neurology of Consciousness Steven Laureys, Olivia Gosseries, Giulio Tononi, 2015-08-12 The second edition of The Neurology of Consciousness is a comprehensive update of this ground breaking work on human consciousness the first book in this area to summarize the neuroanatomical and functional underpinnings of consciousness by emphasizing a lesional approach offered by the study of neurological patients Since the publication of the first edition in 2009 new methodologies have made consciousness much more accessible scientifically and in particular the study of disorders disruptions and disturbances of consciousness has added tremendously to our understanding of the biological basis of human consciousness The publication of a new edition is both critical and timely for continued understanding of the field of consciousness In this critical and timely update revised and new contributions by internationally renowned researchers edited by the leaders in the field of consciousness research provide a unique and comprehensive focus on human consciousness The new edition of The Neurobiology of Consciousness will continue to be an indispensable resource for researchers and students working on the cognitive neuroscience of consciousness and related disorders as well as for neuroscientists psychologists psychiatrists and neurologists contemplating consciousness as one of the philosophical ethical sociological political and religious questions of our time New chapters on the neuroanatomical basis of consciousness and short term memory and expanded coverage of comas and neuroethics including the ethics of brain death The first comprehensive authoritative collection to describe disorders of consciousness and how they are used to study and understand the neural correlates of conscious perception in humans Includes both revised and new chapters from the top international researchers in the field including Christof Koch Marcus Raichle Nicholas Schiff Joseph Fins and Michael Gazzaniga The long and short of mental time travel-- self-projection over time-scales large and small James M. Broadway, Claire M. Zedelius, Jonathan W. Schooler, Simon Grondin, 2015-07-02 Researchers working in many fields of psychology and neuroscience are interested in the temporal structure of experience as well as the experience of time at scales of a few milliseconds up to a few seconds as well as days months years and beyond This Research Topic supposes that broadly speaking the field of time psychology can be organized by distinguishing between perceptual and conceptual time scales Dealing with conceptual time mental time travel also called mental simulation self projection episodic semantic memory propection foresight allows humans and perhaps other animals to imagine and plan events and experiences in their personal futures based in large part on memories of their personal pasts as well as general knowledge Moreover contents of human language and thought are fundamentally organized by a temporal dimension enmeshed with it so thoroughly that it is usually expressible only through spatial metaphors But what might such notions have to do with experienced durations of events lasting milliseconds up to a few seconds during the so called present moment of perception action cycle time This Research Topic is organized around the general premise that by considering how mental time travel might scale down to time perception and vice versa no less progress and integrative synthesis within and across scientific domains might be facilitated Bipolar configurations of future and past orientations of the self may be repeated in parallel across conceptual and perceptual time scales subsumed by a general Janus like feedforward feedback system for goal pursuit As an example it is notable that the duality of propection and semantic episodic memory operating at conceptual time scales has an analogue in perception action cycle time namely the interplay of anticipatory attention and working memory Authors from all areas of psychology and neuroscience are encouraged to submit articles of any format accepted by the journal Original Research Methods Hypothesis Theory Reviews etc which might speak to questions about time and temporal phenomena at long and or short time scales Women's Health Care in Advanced Practice Nursing, Second Edition Ivy M.
