Redevelopment and Race June Manning Thomas, 2013-04-15 In the decades following World War II professional city planners in Detroit made a concerted effort to halt the city s physical and economic decline Their successes included an award winning master plan a number of laudable redevelopment projects and exemplary planning leadership in the city and the nation Yet despite their efforts Detroit was rapidly transforming into a notorious symbol of urban decay In Redevelopment and Race Planning a Finer City in Postwar Detroit June Manning Thomas takes a look at what went wrong demonstrating how and why government programs were ineffective and even destructive to community needs In confronting issues like housing shortages blight in older areas and changing economic conditions Detroit s city planners worked during the urban renewal era without much consideration for low income and African American residents and their efforts to stabilize racially mixed neighborhoods faltered as well Steady declines in industrial prowess and the constant decentralization of white residents counteracted planners efforts to rebuild the city Among the issues Thomas discusses in this volume are the harmful impacts of Detroit s highways the mixed record of urban renewal projects like Lafayette Park the effects of the 1967 riots on Detroit s ability to plan the city building strategies of Coleman Young the city s first black mayor and his mayoral successors and the evolution of Detroit s federally designated Empowerment Zone

Examining the city she knew first as an undergraduate student at Michigan State University and later as a scholar and planner Thomas ultimately argues for a different approach to traditional planning that places social justice equity and community ahead of purely physical and economic objectives Redevelopment and Race was originally published in 1997 and was given the Paul Davidoff Award from the Association of Collegiate Schools of Planning in 1999 Students and teachers of urban planning will be grateful for this re release A new postscript offers insights into changes since 1997 Impact of the Section 201 Safeguard Action on Certain Steel Products United States. Norris, Alexia Stokes, Slobodan B. Mickovski, Erik Cammeraat, Rens van Beek, Bruce C. Nicoll, Alexis Achim, 2008-02-29 This chapter describes the processes involved in the transport of material over hillslopes Hillslopes provide the gradients enabling material to be transported from the slopes themselves towards the valley bottoms directly by gravity alone or by water flowing down over the surface Gravity has the potential to transfer material downslope if the material resistance to contact it is insufficient Similarly water and wind flowing along the surface exert a drag on soil particles and have the potential to entrain material After the gradient has fallen below a critical threshold to keep the material in transport deposition occurs Conventionally slope processes in which gravity alone is the dominant transporting agent are called mass movements Brunsden 1984 Processes in which other agents dominate are called erosion e.g wind or water erosion Flowing water is an important transporting agent on which the emphasis is placed here Although mass wasting is a natural process its incidence and impact may be exacerbated by human activities Crozier 1986 Morgan 2005 A situation may ultimately arise in which human interests become unsafe or unsustainable This impact is not only directly felt in the areas where material is removed or deposited and indirectly mass wasting may have an effect on soil and water quality in areas located further downstream In the following sections a brief overview is given of the mechanisms morphology causes and consequences of mass movements and erosion Books in Series, 1985 Vols for 1980 issued in three parts Series Authors and Titles Perinatal Mental Health: Expanding the Focus to the Family Context Susan Garthus-Niegel, Antje Horsch, Yael Benyamini, 2021-09-28 Autocar, 2002 Laser Focus, 1970 Handbook of Sport Psychology Gershon Tenenbaum, Robert C.
