Environmental Communication and the Wild Phillip D. Duncan, Derek Moscato, 2025-07-10. This edited volume brings together scholars, teachers, journalists, activists, and filmmakers engaged in environmental communication and media studies to explore the constructions of primitive and wild spaces in our cultural creations of film, television, advertising, social media, infrastructure, and new technologies among other media. Contributors present close analyses of a number of examples, including Indigenous social media activism, National Geographic VanLife content, Japanese haikyo, and more, to examine the representation, commodification, exploitation, and politicization of primitive and wild natural areas in contemporary media and technology. Ultimately, this collection demonstrates that while the media of wild representations have significantly changed since the days of our ancestors, the same themes of reverence, fear, beauty, power, and awe are still reflected and coopted. Scholars of environmental studies, communication, popular culture, technology studies, and media studies will find this book of particular interest. Garmin

Geographic Information, Geospatial Technologies and Spatial Data Science for Health Justine Blanford,2024-08-20 Geographic information spatial analysis and geospatial technologies play an important role in understanding changes in planetary health and in defining the drivers contributing to different health outcomes both locally and globally Patterns influencing health outcomes and disease in the environment are complex and require an understanding of the ecology of the disease and how these interact in space and time Knowing where and when diseases are prevalent who is affected and what may be driving these outcomes is important for determining how to respond In reality we all would like to be healthy and live in healthy places In this book epidemiology and public health are integrated with spatial data science to examine health issues in dynamically changing environments This is too broad a field to be completely covered in one book and so it has been necessary to be selective with the topics methods and examples used to avoid overwhelming introductory readers while at the same time providing sufficient depth for geospatial experts interested in health and for health professionals interested in integrating geospatial elements for health analysis A variety of geographic information some novel some volunteered some authoritative some big and messy is used with a mix of methods consisting of spatial analysis data science and spatial statistics to better understand health risks and disease outcomes Key Features Makes spatial data science accessible to health Integrates epidemiology and disease ecology with spatial data science Integrates theoretical geographic information science concepts Provides practical and applied approaches for examining and exploring health and disease risks Provides spatial data science skill development ranging from map making to spatial modelling

A High-Rate Virtual Instrument of Marine Vehicle Motions for Underwater Navigation and Ocean Remote Sensing Chrystel Gelin,2012-08-22 Dead Reckoning aided with Doppler velocity measurement has been the most common method for underwater navigation for small vehicles Unfortunately DR requires frequent position recalibrations and underwater vehicle navigation systems are limited to periodic position update when they surface Finally standard Global Positioning System GPS receivers are unable to provide the rate or precision required when used on a small vessel To overcome this a low cost high rate motion measurement system for an Unmanned Surface Vehicle USV with underwater and oceanographic purposes is proposed The proposed onboard system for the USV consists of an Inertial Measurement Unit IMU with accelerometers and rate gyros a GPS receiver a flux gate compass a roll and tilt sensor and an ADCP Interfacing all the sensors proved rather challenging because of their different characteristics The proposed data fusion technique integrates the sensors and develops an embeddable software package using real time data fusion methods for a USV to aid in navigation and control as well as controlling an onboard Acoustic Doppler Current Profiler ADCP While ADCPs non intrusively measure water flow the vessel motion needs to be removed to analyze the data and the system developed provides the motion measurements and processing to accomplish this task

Tikal David L. Lentz,Nicholas P. Dunning,Vernon L. Scarborough,2015-02-23 The primary theoretical question addressed in this book focuses on the lingering concern of how the ancient Maya in the northern Pet n Basin were able to sustain large populations in the midst of a tropical forest environment during the Late Classic period This book asks how agricultural intensification was achieved and how essential resources such as water and forest products were managed in both upland areas and seasonal wetlands or bajos All of these activities were essential components of an initially sustainable land use strategy that eventually failed to meet the demands of an escalating population This spiraling disconnect with sound ecological principles undoubtedly contributed to the Maya collapse The book s findings provide insights that broaden the understanding of the rise of social complexity the expansion of the political economy specifically and in general terms the trajectory of cultural evolution of the ancient Maya civilization
