The Power of Little Ideas David Robertson,2017-04-11 The logical and enduring way to innovate Conventional wisdom today says that to survive companies must move beyond incremental sustaining innovation and invest in some form of radical innovation Disrupt yourself or be disrupted is the relentless message company leaders hear The Power of Little Ideas argues there s a third way that is neither sustaining nor disruptive This low risk high reward strategy is an approach to innovation that all company leaders should understand so that they recognize it when their competitors practice it and apply it when it will give them a competitive advantage This distinctive approach has three key elements It consists of creating a family of complementary innovations around a product or service all of which work together to make that product more appealing and competitive The complementary innovations work together as a system to carry out a single strategy or purpose Crucially unlike disruptive or radical innovation innovating around a key product does not change the central product in any fundamental way In this powerful practical book Wharton professor David Robertson illustrates how many well known companies including CarMax GoPro LEGO Gatorade Disney USAA Novo Nordisk and many others used this approach to stave off competitive threats and achieve great success He outlines the organizational practices that unintentionally torpedo this approach to innovation in many companies and shows how organizations can overcome those challenges Aimed at leaders seeking strategies for sustained innovation and at the quickly growing numbers of managers involved with creating new products The Power of Little Ideas provides a logical organic and enduring third way to innovate

Packing Light Allison Fallon,2013-08-26 Carrying baggage you don t need When I was in college I figured my life would come together around graduation I d meet a guy have a beautiful wedding and we'd buy a nice little house not necessarily with a picket fence but with whatever kind of fence we wanted. Whatever we decided I would be happy. When I got out of college and my life didn't look like that I floundered trying to get the life I had always dreamed of through career travel and relationships. But none of them satisfied me as I hoped. Like many twentysomethings I tried to discover the life of my dreams but instead I just kept accumulating baggage: school loans, electronics. I couldn't afford hurt from broken relationships and unmet expectations for what life was supposed to be like. Just when I had given up all hope of finding the life I'd always dreamed about I decided to take a trip to all fifty states because when you go on a trip you can't take your baggage. What I found was that packing light wasn't as easy as I thought it would be. This is the story of my trip and learning to live life with less baggage.     The Classic Treasury of Childhood Wonders Susan Magsamen, 2010. From the dangers of London streets during the Blitz to working on the high seas in the Merchant Navy during the Atlantic Convoy, children were on the frontline of battle during the Second World War. In Sean Longden's gripping retelling of the conflict he explores how the war impacted upon a whole generation who lost their innocence at home and abroad on the battlefield and the home front. Through extensive interviews and research Longden uncovers previously untold stories of heroism and courage: the eleven-year-old boy who was sunk on the SS Benares and left in frozen water for two days; the teenage Girl Guide awarded the George Medal for bravery; the merchant seaman sunk three times by the age of seventeen; the fourteen-year-old who signed up for the army three times before finally seeing action in the Normandy campaign; the fourteen-year-old Boy Bugler of the Royal Marines on active service onboard battleships as well as the harrowing experiences of the boy who survived the Bethnal Green Tube Disaster; the horrors of being a child captive in the German PoW camps Blitz Kids will change forever the way one sees the relationship between the Second World War and the generation our grandparents and great grandparents who bravely faced the challenge of Nazism Allowing them to tell their stories in their own words Sean Longden brings both the horrors and the humour of young lives lived in troubled times The book includes stories of The seventeen year old boy who signed up 4 times before he made it onto the beaches at Normandy The Girl Guide who saved a family during the blitz The teenage merchant seaman who was sunk three times What it was like to be a teenage POW after the disasters of Dunkirk Praise for Sean Longden A rising name in military history able to uncover the missing stories of the Second World War The Guardian A tenacious sleuth of Second World War secrets Andrew Roberts At times you have to stop and remind yourself that you re reading history and not an 007 thriller The Soldier First class history from a first class historian Military Illustrated Fascinating Financial Times Not Just for Children Harold E.
