Integrated and Holistic Perspectives on Learning, Instruction and Technology J.M. Spector,T.M. Anderson,2005-12-17 One outcome of recent progress in educational technology is strong interest in providing effective support for learning in complex and ill structured domains We know how to use technology to promote understanding in simpler domains e g orientation information procedures with minimal branching etc but we are less sure how to use technology to support understanding in more complex domains e g managing limited resources understanding environmental impacts etc Such domains are increasingly significant for society Technology e g collaborative tele learning digital repositories interactive simulations etc can provide conceptually and functionally rich domains for learning However this introduces the problem of determining what works in which circumstances and why Research and development on these matters is reflected in this collection of papers This research suggests a need to rethink foundational issues in educational philosophy and learning technology One major theme connecting these papers is the need to address learning in the large from a more holistic perspective A second theme concerns the need to take learners where and as they are integrating technology into effective learning places Significant and systematic progress in learning support for complex domains demands further attention to these important issues

Recommender Systems Handbook Francesco Ricci, Lior Rokach, Bracha Shapira, 2022-04-21 This third edition handbook describes in detail the classical methods as well as extensions and novel approaches that were more recently introduced within this field. It consists of five parts: general recommendation techniques, special recommendation techniques, value and impact of recommender systems, human computer interaction and applications. The first part presents the most popular and fundamental techniques currently used for building recommender systems, such as collaborative filtering, semantic based methods, recommender systems based on implicit feedback, neural networks, and context aware methods. The second part of this handbook introduces more advanced recommendation techniques, such as session based recommender systems, adversarial machine learning for recommender systems, group recommendation techniques, reciprocal recommenders, systems, natural language techniques for recommender systems, and cross domain approaches to recommender systems. The third part covers a wide perspective to the evaluation of recommender systems, with papers on methods for evaluating recommender systems, their value and impact, the multi stakeholder perspective of recommender systems, the analysis of the fairness, novelty and diversity in recommender systems. The fourth part contains a few chapters on the human computer dimension of recommender systems, with research on the role of explanation, the user personality, and how to effectively support individual and group decision with recommender systems. The last part focusses on application in several important areas, such as food, music, fashion, and multimedia recommendation. This informative third edition handbook provides a comprehensive yet concise and convenient reference source to recommender systems for researchers and advanced level students focused on computer science and data science. Professionals working in data analytics that are using recommendation and personalization techniques will also find this handbook a useful tool.
