Dana, 2005-03-23 Psychologists throughout the world are being asked to assess an increasingly diverse clientele immigrants refugees second and third generations still influenced by different cultures and languages and indigenous peoples now moving towards the mainstream Most are ill

equipped by training and experience to understand assess and subsequently treat such clients competently and ethically Virtually all agree on the need for culture sensitive assessment but it has proven difficult to provide adequate services despite good intentions and funding Too often clients who may have different worldview and health illness beliefs are marginalized For many reasons standard assessment instruments designed researched and normed on a few groups in the United States the MMPI 2 the Rorschach and the TAT are used as though they were universally applicable Most busy practitioners have little time to investigate alternatives developed for use with one new group or another focused on one issue or another generally in a research context In this book Richard Dana proposes a new model of multicultural assessment practice and points directions for future training and research He presents general culture specific and step by step instrument specific guidelines for the use of the standard armamentarium with different groups Throughout he highlights exciting new interpretive possibilities the traditional tests offer that should be regularly exploited but emphasizes the importance of recognizing psychometric limits Four extended examples of the use of one or several instruments with a specific group offer concrete illustrations of the model in action Multicultural Assessment Principles Applications and Examples constitutes an invaluable new resource for psychologists and for their students and trainees

Studies in Reflecting Abstraction Jean Piaget, 2014-04-04 This translation of the French Recherches sur l'abstraction réfléchissante 1977 make available in English Piaget's only treatise on reflecting abstraction a process he came to attribute considerable importance to in his later thinking and which he believed to be responsible for many of the advances that take place in human development especially our understanding of mathematics Rich with empirical research on reflecting abstraction at work in the thinking of 4 to 12 year olds the studies in this volume examine its role in many contexts of cognitive development such as reasoning about mathematics forming analogies putting objects in order by size and comparing the resulting series and navigating through a wire maze His theoretical discussions explore the relationships between reflecting abstraction and other central processes in his later theory such as generalization becoming conscious and equilibration as the differentiation of possibilities and their integration into necessities These discussions indicate which aspects of his later theorizing were settled and which require further thought and investigation Studies in Reflecting Abstraction will be of interest to developmental and cognitive psychologists educationalists philosophers and anyone who seeks to understand human knowledge and its development
