Teaching Science Karl Maton,J. R. Martin,Y. J. Doran,2021-04-25 Science has never been more important yet science education faces serious challenges At present science education research only sees half the picture focusing on how students learn and their changing conceptions Both teaching practice and what is taught science knowledge itself are missing This book offers new interdisciplinary ways of thinking about science teaching that foreground the forms taken by science knowledge and the language imagery and gesture through which they are expressed This book brings together leading international scholars from Systemic Functional Linguistics a long established approach to language and Legitimation Code Theory a rapidly growing sociological approach to knowledge practices It explores how to bring knowledge language and pedagogy back into the picture of science education but also offers radical innovations that will shape future research Part I sets out new ways of understanding the role of knowledge in integrating mathematics into science teaching scientific explanations and using multimedia resources such as animations Part II provides new concepts for showing the role of language in complex scientific explanations in how scientific taxonomies are built and in combining with mathematics and images to create science knowledge Part III draws on the approaches to explore how more students can access scientific knowledge how to teach professional reasoning the role of body language in science teaching and making mathematics understandable to all learners Teaching Science offers major leaps forward in understanding knowledge language and pedagogy that will shape the research agenda far beyond science education

Born to Fail?: Social Mobility: A Working Class View Sonia Blandford, 2017-10-02 Sonia Blandford CEO of award winning charity Achievement for All writes brilliantly and honestly about the facing up to the realities of the white working class and how to address social mobility from the inside. No one in the UK is better placed than Sonia to write about the struggles of white working class pupils in our schools. She grew up on the Allied Estate in Hounslow and was the first member of her family to pursue education beyond the age of 14 and was also the first to attend university. Sonia lost her mother when she took an accidental overdose when she couldn't read the doctor's prescription. This tragic failing served as one of the inspirations for her to set up the award winning Achievement for All organisation who work with thousands of schools to help close the attainment gap. Born to Fail tackles head on issues such as why education often doesn't matter to the working class, how education has failed to deliver for them, the importance of self-belief, action and confidence and how the Early Years is the crucial time to build success from the start.
