

A black and white photograph of a tree-lined street. The trees are bare, and their branches create a complex, dark web against a lighter sky. A person is walking away from the viewer in the distance, silhouetted against the light. The overall mood is somber and contemplative.

Postcolonial Narrative and the Work of Mourning Sam Durrant, 2012-02-01 Sam Durrant's powerfully original book compares the ways in which the novels of J M Coetzee Wilson Harris and Toni Morrison memorialize the traumatic histories of racial oppression that continue to haunt our postcolonial era The works examined bear witness to the colonization of the New World U S slavery and South African apartheid histories founded on a violent denial of the humanity of the other that had traumatic consequences for both perpetrators and victims Working at the borders of psychoanalysis and deconstruction and drawing inspiration from recent work on the Holocaust Durrant rethinks Freud's opposition between mourning and melancholia at the level of the collective and rearticulates the postcolonial project as an inconsolable labor of remembrance J.M. Coetzee David

Attwell, 1993-06-11 David Attwell defends the literary and political integrity of South African novelist J M Coetzee by arguing that Coetzee has absorbed the textual turn of postmodern culture while still addressing the ethical tensions of the South African crisis As a form of situational metafiction Coetzee's writing reconstructs and critiques some of the key discourses in the history of colonialism and apartheid from the eighteenth century to the present While self-conscious about fiction making it takes seriously the condition of the society in which it is produced Attwell begins by describing the intellectual and political contexts surrounding Coetzee's fiction and then provides a developmental analysis of his six novels drawing on Coetzee's other writings in stylistics literary criticism translation political journalism and popular culture Elegantly written Attwell's analysis deals with both Coetzee's subversion of the dominant culture around him and his ability to see the complexities of giving voice to the anguish of South Africa The Booker Prize and the Legacy of Empire Luke Strongman, 2021-12-28 This book is about the Booker Prize the London-based literary award made annually to the best novel written in English by a writer from one of those countries belonging to or formerly part of the British Commonwealth The approach to the Prize is thematically historical and spans the award period to 1999 The novels that have won or shared the Prize in this period are examined within a theoretical framework mapping the literary terrain of the fiction Individual chapters explore themes that occur within the larger narrative formed by this body of novels collectively invoked cultures social trends and movements spanning the stages of imperial heyday and decline as perceived over the past three decades Individually and collectively the novels mirror often in terms of more than a single static image British imperial culture after empire contesting and reinterpreting perceptions of the historical moment of the British Empire and its legacy in contemporary culture The body of Booker novels narrates the demise of empire and the emergence of different cultural formations in its aftermath The novels are grouped for discussion according to the way in which they deal with aspects of the transition from empire to a post imperial culture from early imperial expansion through colonization retrenchment decolonization and postcolonial pessimism to the emergence of tribal nationalisms and post imperial nation states The focus throughout is primarily literary and contingently cultural

Life and Times of Michael K J. M. Coetzee,Colbert Mashile,2006 Literary Gastronomy David Bevan,1988 Secretary of the Invisible Mike Marais,2009 How do individuals who are part of a community respond to the stranger as a stranger i e without simply positioning this outsider in opposition to the community in which they are located How may individuals receive something unknown and therefore surprising into their world without compromising it by identifying it in the terms of that world In this study Mike Marais traces the various ways in which Coetzee s fiction from Dusklands through to Slow Man repeatedly poses such questions of hospitality It is shown that the form of ethical action staged in Coetzee s writing is grounded not in the individual s willed and rational achievement but in his or her invasion and possession by the strangeness of the stranger This ethic of hospitality Marais argues has a strong aesthetic dimension for Coetzee the writer is inspired to write by being acted upon by a force from beyond the phenomenal world The writer is a secretary of the invisible She or he is responsible to and for the invisible Marais maintains that this understanding of writing as an involuntary response to that which exceeds history is evident from the first in Coetzee s fiction In readings of the novels of the apartheid era he traces this writer s rueful ironic awareness of the limited even incidental form of political engagement that may emanate from such an aesthetic He then goes on to argue that if it is the writer s obligation to render visible the invisible writing must be a task that can never be completed What is more such writing is thus bound to be iterative in form With this in mind he traces the structural similarities between Coetzee s writing of the apartheid period and his post apartheid and Australian writing arguing that the later texts are self reflexively aware of their endlessly repetitive nature These contentions are developed incrementally through close readings of the individual novels that focus on recurring metaphors of hospitality visitor the stranger the house the castaway the invisible the dream and the child Garden Plots Shelley Saguaro,2017-05-15 Shelley Saguaro s unique book illustrates the persistent presence of gardens in literature Gardens in fiction do not simply represent a familiar theme Saguaro contends but are bound up with wider aesthetic and ideological issues As with literary forms so too are gardens subject to transformations Encompassing a wide array of twentieth and twenty first century authors including Virginia Woolf Eudora Welty Carol Shields J M Coetzee Toni Morrison Leslie Marmon Silko Jamaica Kincaid Don DeLillo and Philip K Dick this book's preoccupations are signalled in the evocatively titled chapters Botanical Modernisms Natural History and Postmodern Grafting Postcolonial Landscapes How Does Your Cyber Garden Grow and Coevolutionary Histories the Poetics of a Paradox Informed by postcolonial formalist feminist and psychoanalytic theories Garden Plots is a must read for all those alive to the space gardens inhabit in the literary landscape

A Comparative Analysis of the South African and German Reception of Nadine Gordimer's, Andre Brink's and J.M. Coetzee's Works Eva-Marie Herlitzius, 2005 J. M. Coetzee and the Power of Narrative,

Nadine Gordimer Dominic Head, 1994-11-10 The award to Nadine Gordimer of the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1991 was an affirmation of her distinctive contribution to twentieth century fiction and to the creation of a literature that challenges apartheid In this study which may be used as an introduction as well as by those already familiar with Gordimer's work Dominic Head discusses each of her novels in detail paying close attention to the texts both as a reflection of events and situations in the real world and as evidence of her constant rethinking of her craft Head shows how Gordimer's concerns apparent in her earliest novels are developed through increasing stress on the politics of textuality and he pursues the implications of this development to consider how Gordimer's later work contributes to postmodernist fiction and to a recentering of political engagement in an era of uncertainty
