Christians as Teachers Geoffrey Beech, 2015-12-04 How does teaching Christianly differ from other forms of teaching How might a Christian teach in a biblical way some commonplace set of facts from a mandated secular curriculum This book considers what a biblical approach to teaching may involve as it emerges from a biblically grounded life and what that might look like in the classroom Rather than speaking of integration of faith and learning it starts from a foundation of Christ the Truth and Lord of all and moves to the development of a framework for classroom practice that includes a need to try to see things from God's perspective All truly Christian education is seen therefore as a profoundly biblical pursuit leading to the revelation of God To do this the book explores the underlying theology and principles out of which our education should flow These principles then allow us to examine such areas as the consideration of a Christian way to teach subjects such as geography and mathematics or even what might be distinctive about the way a Christian teacher may do something as mundane as picking up a pencil

Teaching Information Fluency Carl Heine, Dennis O'Connor, 2013-11-14 Teaching Information Fluency describes the skills and dispositions of information fluency adept searchers Readers will receive in depth information on what it takes to locate evaluate and ethically use digital information The book realistically examines the abilities of Internet searchers today in terms of their efficiency and effectiveness in finding online information evaluating it and using it ethically Since the majority of people develop these skills on their own rather than being taught the strategies they invent may suffice for simple searches but for more complex tasks such as those required by academic and professional work the average person's performance is adequate only about 50% of the time The book is laid out in five parts an introduction to the problem and how search engine improvements are not sufficient to be of real help speculative searching investigative searching ethical use and applications of information fluency The intent of the book is to provide readers ways to improve their performance as consumers of digital information and to help teachers devise useful ways to integrate information fluency instruction into their teaching since deliberate instruction is needed to develop fluency Since it is unlikely that dedicated class time will be available for such instruction the approach taken embeds information fluency activities into classroom instruction in language arts history and science Numerous model lessons and resources are woven into the fabric of the text including think alouds individual and group search challenges discussions assessments and curation all targeted to Common Core State Standards as well as information fluency competencies

Processes and Process-Oriented in Foreign Language Teaching and Learning Wai Meng Chan, Kwee Nyet Chin, Masanori Nagami, Titima Suthiwan, 2011-10-27 There can be no products without processes Though this statement may seem to be no more than an overused generalization it encapsulates the undoubted importance of processes and process oriented approaches in language teaching and learning In foreign language education in recent decades researchers and practitioners alike are increasingly focusing their attention on

- 1 the learner as the active subject of learning and the internal processes that constitute his/her learning leading to the development of communicative competence
- 2 teaching approaches curricula and materials that reflect this view of language learning and
- 3 other factors such as the sociocultural context social interactions and discourse and individual learner characteristics and differences

The theme of this book reflects this paradigm shift and the papers included here from the disciplines of foreign language education and second language acquisition provide vital insights into processes in curriculum planning teaching methodology teacher education and professional development language acquisition language discourse classroom instruction and interactions the development of language skills and learning strategies and language learning motivation

Technology and Language Teaching Ursula Stickler, 2022-04-28 This Element is a practical guide for language teachers intending to upgrade their online teaching During the COVID 19 pandemic many teachers were forced to move their teaching online without proper preparation and support This has led to frustration and stress and sometimes decisions based not on sound pedagogy but on technological constraints requirements and opportunities To balance this negative experience a research based pedagogy focussed approach has been taken in this volume step by step teachers are shown how to make decisions about the choice and usage of online tools how to adapt their pedagogy and teaching strategies to fit with online learning environments and how to create a positive learning experience for their students In six sections this Element takes teachers from epistemological considerations to learning theories from teacher centred to learner centred online tuition and from technological needs to pedagogic choice ending with suggestions on how to future proof language teaching
