This book is a rare and intriguing account of the midlife experience from a multidisciplinary perspective. It represents an insightful construal of midlife from the disciplines of philosophy, psychology, neuroscience, literature, sociology, and the fine arts. This volume provides an in-depth understanding of the middle phase of human lives, which is the transitional phase at which a crucial transformation happens in the perspective towards life, society, and the world at large. It encompasses multiple methodological perspectives, including empirical studies, descriptive and interpretative narratives, text analyses, and revisiting existing literature. Since it addresses the issues of midlife from a multidisciplinary perspective, it would enable a wide variety of readers to connect with it. This book would be useful to the students, researchers, and teachers of psychology, philosophy, neuroscience, literature, sociology, social work, film studies, and the fine arts. It would also be an invaluable companion to professionals working in the field of Counselling, Gerontology, Health and Social care, and NGOs.

Making a Difference? Susanna Price, Kathryn Robinson, 2015-01-01 Social assessment for projects in China is an important emerging field. This collection of essays from authors whose formative work has influenced the policies that shape practice in development-affected communities locates recent Chinese experience of the development of social assessment practices, including in displacement and resettlement, in a historical and comparative perspective. Contributors, social scientists employed by international development banks, national government agencies, and sub-contracting groups, examine projects from a practitioner's perspective. Real-life experiences are presented as case-specific praxis, theoretically informed insight, and pragmatic lessons learned, grounded in the history of this field of development practice. They reflect on work where economic determinism reigns supreme, yet project failure or success often hinges upon sociopolitical and cultural factors.

Working with Family Carers Valerie Gant, 2025-02-28 Care giving transcends race, gender, and age, and most people will be a care giver or receiver, often both, at some point in their lives. This book explores the extent of caregiving in the UK and discusses its impact on individuals, groups, and communities, as well as health and social care professionals. It covers ways of identifying carers and providing information and advice, and, given the likelihood of practitioners themselves providing care, a discussion regarding maintaining resilience and the extent to which personal experiences guide and inform practitioners' response to work with carers is included. Exercises allow the reader to explore ways practitioners can engage with and support carers. The recent legislative changes brought about by the Care Act 2014 are discussed, as well as relevant policies. Caregiving has the potential to transcend disciplines, so this text will appeal to students of a variety of undergraduate and postgraduate programmes and across the professional arena, including social work, nursing, occupational, and physiotherapy. The author is donating her royalties on this book to Carers UK and Carers Trust.
