How a field built on the intellectual labor and expertise of women erased them The academic field of international relations presents its own history as largely a project of elite white men And yet women played a prominent role in the creation of this new cross disciplinary field In Erased Patricia Owens shows that since its beginnings in the early twentieth century international relations relied on the intellectual labour of women and their expertise on such subjects as empire and colonial administration anticolonial organising non Western powers and international organisations Indeed women were among the leading international thinkers of the era shaping the development of the field as scholars journalists and public intellectuals and as heterosexual spouses and intimate same sex partners Drawing on a wide range of archival sources and weaving together personal institutional and intellectual narratives Owens documents key moments and locations in the effort to forge international relations as a separate academic discipline in Britain She finds that women s ideas and influence were first marginalised and later devalued ignored and erased Examining the roles played by some of the most important women thinkers in the field including Margery Perham Merze Tate Eileen Power Margaret Cleeve Coral Bell and Susan Strange Owens traces the intellectual and institutional legacies of misogyny and racism She argues that the creation of international relations was a highly gendered and racialised project that failed to understand plurality on a worldwide scale Acknowledging this intellectual failure and recovering the history of women in the field points to possible sources for its renewal A History of Women and Ordination Ida Raming,2002 The Priestly Office of Women God s gift to a Renewed Church is the English translation of the second edition of Dr Ida Raming s classic study of the exclusion of women from ordination in the Western Christian Church The Exclusion of Women from the Priesthood Divine Law or Sex Discrimination

Reppetto, 2013-10-18 A history of the forces of law and order in the United States highlights individual heroes and villains reformers events and locations from 1945 to 2012 Luke/Acts and the End of History Kylie Crabbe, 2019-11-18 Luke Acts and the End of History investigates how understandings of history in diverse texts of the Graeco Roman period illuminate Lukan eschatology In addition to Luke Acts it considers ten comparison texts as detailed case studies throughout the monograph Polybius's Histories Diodorus Siculus's Library of History Virgil's Aeneid Valerius Maximus's Memorable Doings and Sayings Tacitus's Histories 2 Maccabees the Qumran War Scroll Josephus's Jewish War 4 Ezra and 2 Baruch The study makes a contribution both in its method and in the questions it asks By placing Luke Acts alongside a broad range of texts from Luke's wider cultural setting it overcomes two methodological shortfalls frequently evident in recent research limiting comparisons of key themes to texts of similar genre and separating non Jewish from Jewish parallels Further by posing fresh questions designed to reveal writers underlying conceptions of history such as beliefs about the shape and end of history or divine and human agency in history this monograph challenges the enduring tendency to underestimate the centrality of eschatology for Luke's account. Influential post-war scholarship reflected powerful concerns about salvation history arising from its particular historical setting and criticised Luke for focusing on history instead of eschatology due to the parousia's delay. Though some elements of this thesis have been challenged, Luke continues to be associated with concerns about the delayed parousia affecting contemporary interpretation. By contrast, this study suggests that viewing Luke Acts within a broader range of texts from Luke's literary context highlights his underlying teleological conception of history. It demonstrates not only that Luke retains a sense of eschatological urgency seen in other New Testament texts but a structuring of history more akin to the literature of late Second Temple Judaism than the non-Jewish Graeco-Roman historiographies with which Luke Acts is more commonly compared. The results clarify not only Lukan eschatology but related concerns or effects of his eschatology such as Luke's politics and approach to suffering. This monograph thereby offers an important corrective to readings of Luke Acts based on established exegetical habits and will help to inform interpretation for scholars and students of Luke Acts as well as classicists and theologians interested in these key questions.

Architecture of Middle Georgia John Linley, 2014-04-01 The middle Georgia area including Baldwin, Hancock, Jasper, Johnson, Putnam, Washington, and Wilkinson Counties is a vast living museum of classic southern architecture. First published in 1972, this sweeping survey remains one of the best books on the topic, covering primitive, Gothic, Greek Revival, and Victorian styles and beyond. John Linley's descriptions of the diverse structures of the Oconee area are illustrated with more than three hundred photographs and representative floor plans. Fine architecture, as Linley shows, is greatly influenced by climate and geography, by the natural resources of the region and by history, custom, and tradition. He considers these major factors along with such individual features as green spaces, gardens, and parks, and town and city plans, viewing the architecture in relation to the whole environment. The architecture is discussed in chronological order, by style, and is related to the surrounding country, with each of the seven Oconee area counties presented historically and in terms of its own resources. Touring maps of the counties and the principal towns locate all structures and points of interest mentioned in the text.

Shapes of Time Michael McGillen, 2023-12-15 Shapes of Time explores how concepts of time and history were spatialized in early twentieth-century German thought. Michael McGillen locates efforts in German modernism to conceive of alternative shapes of time beyond those of historicism and nineteenth-century philosophies of history at the boundary between secular and theological discourses. By analyzing canonical works of German modernism, those of Karl Barth, Franz Rosenzweig, Siegfried Kracauer, and Robert Musil, he identifies the ways in which spatial imagery and metaphors were employed to both separate the end of history from a narrative framework and to map the liminal relation between history and eschatology. Drawing on theories and practices as disparate as constructivism, non-Euclidean geometry, photography, and urban architecture, Shapes of Time presents original connections between modernism, theology, and mathematics as played out within the canon of twentieth-century German letters. Concepts of temporal and spatial form McGillen contends contribute to the understanding not only of modernist literature but also of larger theoretical concerns within modern cultural and intellectual history American Police, A History: 1945-2012
