Abstract

Abstract What does it mean to be a good person? [1] is the first of a series of papers that will explore the question of how to design a good person. The paper begins by discussing the importance of the question and then presents a series of questions that will be explored in the subsequent papers. The questions are: (1) What is the goal of a good person? (2) How can we design a good person? (3) How can we evaluate a good person? (4) How can we improve a good person? (5) How can we create a good person? The paper concludes by discussing the importance of the question and the need for further research.
