The Intellectual Capital of Schools Anthony Kelly,2007-05-08 A teacher may get good even astounding results from his pupils while he is teaching them and yet not be a good teacher because it may be that while his pupils are directly under his influence he raises them to a height which is not natural to them without fostering their own capacities for work at this level so that they immediately decline again as soon as the teacher leaves the classroom Ludwig Wittgenstein 1889 1951 It is difficult to measure effectiveness in not for profit organisations like schools colleges and universities There is no bottom line against which to gauge performance they have limited technical development and managers struggle to make meaningful comparisons between outcomes and targets In education well publicised attempts have been made to establish some would say impose a set of criteria by which organisations judge success or failure These have been largely subjective the percentage of inspected classes regarded as good the extent to which staff is involved in decision making the appropriateness of the leadership shown by senior managers and so on if occasionally peppered with quantitative measures like the percentage of students achieving certain grades in public examinations to sustain the illusion of objectivity This is not to fault the aspiration necessarily though initially at least it created a surveillance culture in schools that did justice to neither the inspected nor the argument for inspection Happily this is changing Practice Paper Ks3 Maths Level 6-8

The Sutherland Inquiry Stewart R. Sutherland,Great Britain. Department for Children, Schools and Families,2008 The Sutherland Inquiry HCP 62 session 2008 09 ISBN 9780102958393 is an independent inquiry remitted by the Office of the Qualifications and Examinations Regulator Ofqual and the Secretary of State for Children Schools and Families into the delivery of the National Curriculum tests in 2008 In July 2008 1 2 million pupils heard that their National Curriculum test results would be delayed The test delivery service represented a failure in customer delivery service to the pupils schools and also the markers upon whom the National Curriculum testing regime relies The primary responsibility must therefore rest with the American organisation ETS Global BV ETS which won the public contract to deliver the tests and failed its customers This report examines how this organisation secured the contract what its plans were and why its systems and process as a whole were not properly tested The report will also describe how ETS s systems failed during the test delivery process There was also a failure on the part of the Government s Non Departmental Public Body the Qualifications and Curriculum Authority to deliver its remit The report also sets out the procurement process that QCA used to select its delivery supplier ETS and how it managed the contract The report sets out a number of recommendations on how test delivery can improve in future years and has set out a number of key priorities including that the delivery process of the National Curriculum tests should be modernised and improved in consultation with the marking community including piloting online marking that whatever process is used should be thoroughly piloted and project managed to ensure schools and pupils get their results on time that the customer service provided to markers must be vastly improved to ensure that they are properly supported and are able to access up to date information

Assessment In Secondary Schools Brooks, Val, 2002-01-01 The entire text is devoted to assessment and therefore it is able to offer an in depth consideration of aspects of assessment which exercise teachers at the beginning of their career for example the relationship between assessment and learning how assessment contributes to planning ways of marking pupils work writing reports for parents and meetings with parents
