which underlies most implementations of Prolog but very little exists on what is needed for constructing a state of the art declarative LP inference engine Contrast this with the literature on say Compilers where one can first study a book on the general principles and algorithms and then dive in the particulars of a specific compiler Such resources greatly facilitate the ability to start making meaningful contributions quickly There is also a dearth of articles about systems that support truly declarative languages especially those that tie into first order logic mathematical programming and constraint solving LP helps solve challenging problems in a wide range of application areas but in depth analysis of their connection with LP language abstractions and LP implementation methods is lacking Also rare are surveys of challenging application areas of LP such as Bioinformatics Natural Language Processing Verification and Planning The goal of this book is to help fill in the previously mentioned void in the LP literature It offers a number of overviews on key aspects of LP that are suitable for researchers and practitioners as well as graduate students The following chapters in theory systems and applications of LP are included
