Semi-Detached Griff Rhys Jones, 2007-01-18 Semi detached Griff relives freezing bus journeys to school and the impulsive stealing of that half a crown from Charlie Hume's money box sitting outside Butlins at Clacton longing to be inside and on the Waltzer instead of stranded on the pebbles with his dad hazy summer afternoons spent with feral gangs in the woods or storming the mud flats singing extracts from the Bonzo Dog Doo Dah Band The memories are like Mivvis frozen and fuzzy at the edges but a sweet jam of pure recollected goo at the centre From birth to the BBC this is a story of a confident middle child Griff's devoted parents Gwynneth and Elwyn gave him love security and plenty of asparagus soup from a fake wicker vacuum flask with a plastic top Griff's father Elwyn a retiring hospital doctor with a penchant for sweeties and ice cream loathed the tedium of English social ritual and hid behind his family and woodwork From tree houses to boats puppets to tables he sawed and hammered his way into his family's affections Griff left the bosom of his loving irascible eccentric solid all engulfing family for the firm embrace of real life via the Upminster Fun Gang the Direct Grant System and Party Sevens losing his virginity down the back of a bunk in a twenty nine foot yacht discovering the romantic advantages of shared babysitting engagements and the drawbacks of infatuation with identical twins If he hadn't moved around so much as a child would Griff have felt less like a voyeur looking in on the lighted window across the square the Georgian house glowing in the sun the clink of glasses and the bray of public school certainties Would he be able to tuck in his own shirt Would he be fully detached A laugh aloud buffet of baby boomer Britain Griff's self deprecating elegant affectionate prose reveals a little bit better how on earth you got from there to here Film Review, 2005 On Audrey Hepburn Steven Cohan, 2024 Why should Audrey Hepburn still matter today This book revises the contemporary view of Hepburn that sees her primarily as a fashion icon and style guru It argues that her films more than her biography or her likeness are essential to understanding both her importance as one of the all time major stars to emerge in Hollywood after World War II and her lasting popularity On Audrey Hepburn examines her screen presence and persona while at the same time emphasizing her skill as an actress While cognizant of the many contradictions inhering in her films the book examines the liminality she represented in her comedies and musicals demonstrating how her characters desiring and intelligence supply the primary motors of the plots resist the film's patriarchal template and complicate her asymmetrical casting opposite older male stars Moreover Hepburn's close relation with designer Hubert de Givenchy which established her identification with haute couture enabled her characters movement onscreen and was a basis for understanding transformation through fashion as a turning point event in the narrative which forged a pathway through spectacle for viewer identification with Hepburn's difference as symbolized by her unorthodox body which the clothes did not disguise but amplified On Audrey Hepburn finally examines her skilful performances in thrillers and dramas studying her expert timing and use of props her expressive face as it revealed interior emotions and thinking her interaction with other actors in an ensemble and the overall nuance with which she developed complex characterizations     Entertainment Design ,1999     Maverick Guide to Oman Peter J.
