An Alliance at Risk Laurent Cohen-Tanugi, 2003 In the immediate aftermath of the events of September 11 people around the world and Europeans in particular came together in unprecedented demonstrations of compassion for and solidarity with the people of the United States Since then however relations between Europe and America have become perilously contentious The new unilateral and pre-emptive tone of US foreign policy wedded to old fears of American hegemony and an irreducible strain of anti-Americanism have alienated and angered Europeans even as Europe's refusal to endorse key American policies has drawn charges of ingratitude and irrelevance dates back to the end of the Cold War and poses profound dangers for the intertwined futures of America Europe and the world In this book he argues that although the ties that have united Europe and America for decades remain stronger than the propagandists of a transatlantic schism would have us believe deepening transatlantic differences foster an increasing mistrust that prevents constructive dialogue and action perspective and tracing the evolution and progressive alteration of European American relations from the post-war period to the Iraqi crisis Stressing the need for strong transatlantic solidarity in the new global environment Cohen Tanugi sets forth the case and prerequisites for such co-operation calling on Europe to assume fully its responsibilities on the world stage and on America to address the contradictions and inadequacies of its foreign policy and become more attentive to the international community its sensitivities and rules Envisioning what this renewed partnership might look like in the future he concludes that in a world plagued by profound disorder and rabid anti-Westernism the distance between the United States and the European Union must be bridged to propagate the democratic values they share confront global challenges and ensure the stability of the world media Indeed since the 1990s the entry of the South and Arab countries in this case into the information society has become the dominant creed although the vision is still globalizing and marked by stereotypes Representations of these societies are closely associated with international relations and geopolitics characterized by tensions and conflicts However a force has come to disrupt the traditional rules of the game Arab audiences Digital media the dissemination of which has been enabled by the implementation of the information society empowers them to participate fully in a media confluence This liberation from the discourse has two major consequences the media and journalism sector has become more strategic than ever and action toward development must be reinvented
