Perspective: The Impact of the Roman World through Fergus Millar's Research Stéphane Benoist,2012-05-25 Fergus Millar s works have renewed our approach of the Roman world He had studied the functioning of the Roman Empire in the perspective of the Emperor s activities from Augustus to Constantine as well as the Republic during the last two centuries BC in order to revalue the people within the institutions and finally the Near East from Augustus to Constantine and then to the Muslim conquest He uses to be engaged with the whole evidence literary epigraphic papyrological juridical and

Michael Greenhalgh,2015-08-24 Destruction of Cultural Heritage in 19th Century France examines the fate of the building stock and prominent ruins of France especially Roman survivals in the 19th century supported by contemporary documentation and archives largely provided through the publications of scholarly societies The book describes the enormous extent of the destruction of monuments providing an antidote to the triumphalism and concomitant amnesia which in modern scholarship routinely present the 19th century as one of concern for the past It charts the modernising impulse over several centuries detailing the archaeological discoveries made and usually destroyed as walls were pulled down and town interiors re planned plus the brutal impact on landscape and antiquities as railways were laid out Heritage was largely scorned and identity found in modernity not the past Inventaire bibliographique des Isiaca (IBIS)

Cynthia J. Brown, 2019-03-15 Cynthia J Brown explains why the advent of print in the late medieval period brought about changes in relationships among poets patrons and printers which led to a new conception of authorship Examining such paratextual elements of manuscripts as title pages colophons and illustrations as well as such literary strategies as experimentation with narrative voice Brown traces authors attempts to underscore their narrative presence in their works and to displace patrons from their role as sponsors and protectors of the book Her accounts of the struggles of poets including Jean Lemaire Jean Bouchet Jean Molinet and Pierre Gringore over the design printing and sale of their books demonstrate how authors secured the status of literary proprietor during the transition from the culture of script and courtly patronage to that of print capitalism
