foi Jean Bacon, 2001 Dictionnaire de Spiritualite , The Book Worlds of East Asia and Europe, 1450-1850 Joseph P.

McDermott, Peter Burke, 2015-10-01 This volume provides the first comparative survey of the relations between the two most active book worlds in Eurasia between 1450 and 1850 Prominent scholars in book history explore different approaches to publishing printing and book culture They discuss the extent of technology transfer and book distribution between the two regions and show how much book historians of East Asia and Europe can learn from one another by raising new questions exploring remarkable similarities and differences in these regions production distribution and consumption of books The chapters in turn show different ways of writing transnational comparative history Whereas recent problems confronting research on European books can instruct researchers on East Asian book production so can the privileged role of noncommercial publications in the East Asian textual record highlight for historians of the European book the singular contribution of commercial printing and market demands to the making of the European printed record Likewise although production growth was accompanied in both regions by a wider distribution of books woodblock technology's simplicity and mobility allowed for a shift in China of its production and distribution sites farther down the hierarchy of urban sites than was common in Europe And the different demands and consumption practices within these two regions expanding markets led to different genre preferences and uses as well as to the growth of distinctive female readerships A substantial introduction pulls the work together and the volume ends with an essay that considers how these historical developments shape the present book worlds of Eurasia This splendid volume offers expert new insight into the ways of producing financing distributing and reading printed books in early modern Europe and East Asia This is comparative history at its best which leaves us with a better understanding of each context and of the challenges common to book cultures across space and time Ann Blair author of Too Much to Know Managing Scholarly Information before the Modern Age and professor of history Harvard University This engrossing account of the history of the book by leading specialists on the European and East Asian publishing worlds takes stock of what we know and how much we still need to know about the places that books had in the lives of our early modern forebears Each chapter is masterful state of the field coverage of its subject and together they set a new standard for future studies of the book East and West Timothy Brook author of The Troubled Empire China in the Yuan and Ming Dynasties

Gilman,2014-11-01 Islam Christianity and Judaism share several common features including their historical origins in the prophet Abraham their belief in a single divine being and their modern global expanse Yet it is the seeming closeness of these Abrahamic religions that draws attention to the real or imagined differences between them This volume examines Abrahamic cultures as minority groups in societies which may be majority Muslim Christian or Jewish or self consciously secular The focus is on the relationships between these religious identities in global Diaspora where all of them are confronted with claims about national and individual difference The case studies range from colonial Hong Kong and Victorian London to today s San Francisco and rural India Each study shows how complex such relationships can be and how important it is to situate them in the cultural ethnic and historical context of their world The chapters explore ritual practice conversion colonization immigration and cultural representations of the differences between the Abrahamic religions An important theme is how the complex patterns of interaction among these religions embrace collaboration as well as conflict even in the modern Middle East This work by authors from several academic disciplines on a topic of crucial importance will be of interest to scholars of history theology sociology and cultural studies as well as to the general reader interested in how minority groups have interacted and coexisted This is a groundbreaking collection of original learned and cutting edge essays on various aspects of the three major monotheistic religions in modern times The subjects of the essays range across the globe from Hong Kong and South Asia to Victorian Britain and Weimar Germany and teach us to see each tradition and all three traditions together in new and original ways A distinctive contribution Steven T Katz Boston University Judaism Christianity and Islam is remarkable for bringing together accessible scholarly essays each with keen insight exploring the diverse Abrahamic cultures and their complex interactions As the human landscape of Europe continues to evolve this superb series of engagements with the past and present is an indispensable guide Michael Berkowitz University College London Gilman remains an unparalleled expert at identifying cutting edge interdisciplinary research The essays in this superb volume provide urgently needed comparative and theoretical examinations of the constructed natures of Christianity Islam and Judaism and the complex and challenging relationships they engender Lisa Silverman University of Wisconsin Milwaukee
