actions of their leaders and faculty to produce equity in outcomes for racially marginalized populations Drawing on the theory of action research it creates a structure for practitioners to become investigators of their own institutional culture to become aware of racial disparities confront their own practices and learn how things are done on their own turf to ask In what ways am I contributing to equity inequity The Equity Scorecard model differs significantly from traditional approaches to effecting change by creating institutional teams to examine and discuss internal data about student outcomes disaggregated by race and ethnicity The premise of the project is that institutional data acts as a powerful trigger for group learning about inequities in educational outcomes and that the likelihood of improving those outcomes increases if the focus is on those things within the immediate control of the participating leaders and practitioners Numerous institutions have successfully used The Equity Scorecard s data tools and processes of self reflection to uncover and document the behaviors and structures that lead to failure to retain and graduate students from diverse racial and ethnic backgrounds with a history of unequal opportunity and to create the climate for faculty and staff to take ownership of the issues and develop sustainable practices to eliminate racial disparities in academic performance The Scorecard can be used at a small scale to analyze individual courses or programs as well as broader institutional issues This book presents the underlying concept of funds of knowledge for race conscious expertise that informs this process describes its underlying theories defines the attributes needed to achieve equity minded practice demonstrates through examples of implementation what different institutions have learned and what they have achieved and provides a blueprint for action for higher education as a whole For college leaders instructors and support staff who feel the pressure moral or otherwise to close the racial equity gap that their institutions produce year after year this book provides the structure knowledge and tools to do so It is also of value to scholars and students of higher education who have an interest in the study of organizational change

Urban Food Planning Rositsa T. Ilieva, 2016-09-13

This highly original work examines the rise of the urban food planning movement in the Global North and provides insights into the new relationship between cities and food which has started developing over the past decade

It sheds light on cities as new spaces for food system innovation and on food as a tool for sustainable urban development

Drawing insights from the literature on socio technical transitions the book presents

examples of pioneering urban food planning endeavours from North America and Western Europe especially the Netherlands and the UK These are integrated into a single mosaic helping to uncover the conceptual analytical design and organizational innovations emerging at the interface of food and urban policy and planning The author shows how promising seeds of transition to a shared urban food planning agenda are in the making though the urban food planning niche as a whole still lacks the necessary maturity to lastingly influence mainstream planning practices and the dominant agri food system regime Some of the strategic levers to cope with the current instability and limitations of urban food planning and effectively transition it from a marginal novelty to a normalized domain of policy research and practice are systematically examined to this end The conclusions and recommendations put forward have major implications for scholars activists and public officials seeking to radically transform the co evolution of food cities and the environment
