and Targeted Interventions for Student Success in Online Courses Glick, Danny, Cohen, Anat, Chang, Chi, 2020-06-26 Online learning has increasingly been viewed as a possible way to remove barriers associated with traditional face to face teaching such as overcrowded classrooms and shortage of certified teachers While online learning has been recognized as a possible approach to deliver more desirable learning outcomes close to half of online students drop out as a result of student related course related and out of school related factors e.g poor self regulation ineffective teacher student student student and platform student interactions low household income Many educators have expressed concern over students who unexpectedly begin to struggle and appear to fall off track without apparent reason A well implemented early warning system therefore can help educators identify students at risk of dropping out and assign and monitor interventions to keep them on track for graduation Despite the popularity of early warning systems research on their design and implementation is sparse Early Warning Systems and Targeted Interventions for Student Success in Online Courses is a cutting edge research publication that examines current theoretical frameworks research projects and empirical studies related to the design implementation and evaluation of early warning systems and targeted interventions and discusses their implications for policy and practice Moreover this book will review common challenges of early warning systems and dashboard design and will explore design principles and data visualization tools to make data more understandable and therefore more actionable Highlighting a range of topics such as curriculum design game based learning and learning support it is ideal for academicians policymakers administrators researchers education professionals instructional designers data analysts and students Moody's Transportation Manual ,1997 Moody's International Manual ,2000 Flugzeugtriebwerke

The Dragon in the Cockpit Hung Sying Jing, Allen Batteau, 2016-03-23 The purpose of The Dragon in the Cockpit is to enhance the mutual understanding between Western aviation human factors practitioners and the Chinese aviation community by describing some of the fundamental Chinese cultural characteristics pertinent to the field of flight safety China's demand for air transportation is widely expected to increase further and the Chinese aviation community are now also designing their own commercial aircraft the COMAC C 919 Consequently the interactions in the air between the West and China are anticipated to become far more extensive and dynamic However due to the multi faceted nature of Chinese culture it is sometimes difficult for Westerners to understand Chinese thought and ways sometimes to the detriment of aviation safety This book provides crucial insights into Chinese culture and how it manifests itself during flight operations as well as highlighting ways in which Western technology and Chinese culture clash within the cockpit Science and technology studies STS have demonstrated that sophisticated technologies embed cultural assumptions usually in subtle ways These cultural assumptions bite back when the technology is used in an unfamiliar cultural context By creating the insider's perspective on the cultural technological assumptions of the world's fastest growing industrial economy this book seeks to minimize the accidents and damage resulting from technological cultural misunderstandings and misperceptions Pan Am Pioneer Sanford B. Energy: a Continuing Bibliography with Indexes, 1983 Energy, 1983 Safety at the Sharp End Rhona Flin, Paul O'Connor, 2017-05-15 Many 21st century operations are characterised by teams of workers dealing with significant risks and complex technology in competitive commercially driven environments Informed managers in such sectors have realised the necessity of understanding the human dimension to their operations if they hope to improve production and safety performance While organisational safety culture is a key determinant of workplace safety it is also essential to focus on the non technical skills of the system operators based at the sharp end of the organisation These skills are the cognitive and social skills required for efficient and safe operations often termed Crew Resource Management CRM skills In industries such as civil aviation it has long been appreciated that the majority of accidents could have been prevented if better non technical skills had been demonstrated by personnel operating and maintaining the system As a result the aviation industry has pioneered the development of CRM training Many other organisations are now introducing non technical skills training most notably within the healthcare sector Safety at the Sharp End is a general guide to the theory and practice of non technical skills for safety It covers the identification training and evaluation of non technical skills and has been written for use by individuals who are studying or training these skills on CRM and other safety or human factors courses The material is also suitable for undergraduate and post experience students studying human factors or industrial safety programmes
