

the more interesting and controversial at the same time. Her efforts over the years through her work and her public dialogue have made her an unofficial spokesperson of African American people and women (Lupton).

Within the domain of her written work, Angelou has done her best to challenge the traditional structure of autobiographies. This can be seen as a deliberate attempt on the author's part given her pervasive use of critique, changes and expansion of the frontiers of memoirs. Most of Angelou's work is based on themes such as racism, identity crisis and familial issues. While retaining the interest of the audience using unconventional techniques, Angelou has nonetheless raised controversy after controversy so that some of her works have been banned inside the United States. Her work can be gauged better if it is seen through the lens of the author's personal experiences and her reflections in her memoirs. This text will attempt to analyze Angelou's work and personal experiences in order to paint a better picture of the author's struggle against racial injustice.

One of the primary themes in Angelou's work is racism that can be traced in her works ranging from the first piece I Know Why the Caged Bird Sings to her last piece titled A Song Flung up to Heaven. The author has utilized the metaphor of a caged singing bird that is trying to escape its confine repeatedly in order to portray the author's personal/social confinement. The primary means of this confinement were none other than racism and oppression (Lupton). Another aspect of this metaphor is that the bird is singing from the start of the struggle to its very end indicating a determined spirit who is ready to take onto life as it comes along. Angelou's personal life is a reflection of this commitment to live through thick and

Maya Angelou Mary Jane Lupton, 2016-01-18 This book presents the extraordinary life and writings of Maya Angelou It examines the changing viewpoints in her six autobiographies within the context of women s and African American autobiographies with specific reference to the slave narrative and to contemporary fiction and film Maya Angelou The Iconic Self examines this iconic artist s work as an autobiographer offering an up to date assessment of Angelou s contributions to American literature and to American and international culture This is the only book to interpret Angelou s autobiographies as unique experiments in the history of black narrative It attests to Angelou s creativity in transforming the typical single volume autobiography into a six volume personal and cultural adventure that tells the truth but reads like fiction The narratives cover the years from the Great Depression 1941 to the days following the assassinations of Malcolm X 1965 and Martin Luther King 1968 emphasizing Angelou s roles as mother daughter granddaughter wife and friend This revised edition also presents information about Maya Angelou s funeral and her continuing legacy since her death in 2014 The depth and scope of the book s observations regarding Angelou s autobiographies will be of great interest to readers seeking an analysis of the interconnections among Angelou s writings as well as serve students taking courses in women s studies or black culture studies

Ideating Pedagogy in Troubled Times Shalin Lena Raye, Stephanie Masta, Sarah Taylor Cook, Jake Burdick, 2019-10-01 We began the call for this book by asking authors to ideate on activism to take up and seek to extend the interbraided values from the Curriculum and Pedagogy group s espoused mission and vision collocating activist ideologies theoretical traditions and practical orientations as a means of creatively reflectively and productively responding to the increasingly dire social moment. This moment is framed by a landscape denigrated beyond even Pinar's 2004 original declaration of the present as nightmare. The current catastrophic political climate provides challenges and albeit scant opportunities for curriculum scholars and workers as we reflect on past and future directions of our field and grapple with our locations and roles as educators, researchers, practitioners and beings in the world. These troubled times force us to think critically about our scholarship and pedagogy, our influence on educational practices in multiple registers and the surrounding communities we claim to serve. This is where the call began from a desire to think through modern conceptions regarding what counts as activism in the fields of education, curriculum and pedagogy and to consider how activist voices and enactments might emerge differently through curriculum and pedagogy writ large. A guiding source of inspiration for this book, weaving among the emerging themes between the collected manuscripts, reflections and poems, was a passage in Sara Ahmed's 2013 book The Cultural Politics of Emotion. In this passage, Ahmed works through the complicated relationship between the testimonies of pain that injustice causes, the recognition of this pain and the potential of these wounds to move us into a different relationship with healing. p. 200. The chapters, reflections and poems within this volume thus effect a collective ideation on how specific cultural politics and deleterious ideological formations—racism, colonialism, homophobia, ableism, to name only a few—persist and mobilize. The authors seek to expose and name some of these injustices, asking readers not only to see and hear these experiences but to inhabit our complicities in their promulgation. It is important to acknowledge that these named social troubles do not exist in isolation and will enmesh, weave, wind and entangle with one another. The section headings parallel Ahmed's 2013 own ideations: testimony, recognition and wounds, not as a formula to follow, as an activist call or as a model for a means to a more just end, but as a way to engage in these issues as a trope of activist confrontation of readers who are as many of our authors suggest, complicit in maintaining many of these social troubles. The chapters do not need to be read in any particular order, though the ordering of the chapters moves from the naming of social troubles to showing how teaching, research and theory ask us to take a more active role in recognizing and acknowledging the prevalence of these issues and then theorizing ways to engage the wounds.

The Poetics of Black Feminist Narrative: A Literary Analysis of Maya Angelou's Poetry Zafar Iqbal, Saima Parveen, 2018-05-16. Thesis M.A. from the year 2018 in the subject Didactics for the subject English Literature Works, grade 1-5, National University of Modern Languages, Islamabad. Institute of English course, English Literature language, English abstract. In this research paper, the researcher has tried to find out the image of black female depicted in Maya Angelou's poems. This research has been conducted by qualitative and analytical method because this research has not numerical data. After collecting data, the researcher has analyzed poems and supported by particular idea of feminist Sara Mills. The researcher has chosen only three poems of Angelou from The Complete Collected Poems of Maya Angelou, which are Still I Rise, Phenomenal Woman and Caged Bird. This study has been conducted by the use of black feminism theory and also focused on words lines and stanzas This research gives rise to enhance the argument in literature studies particularly Black Feminism self esteem Thus it can enable others to organize research on African American females The analysis has explained that black woman s different images are depicted in Maya Angelou s poems In the first poem Still I Rise Maya Angelou presents black female as a leader of the movement and challenges the society arrangement about black people In the second poem Phenomenal Woman Maya Angelou describes a standard of beauty that beauty is not having beautiful face and slim smart body and thin lip She says that a black woman can be phenomenal woman through her confidence and good personality and proud herself being black woman In last poem Caged Bird Maya Angelou shows underdevelopment of black woman due to tradition As a coloured woman Maya Angelou raises her voice and says that soon black people will be free The present research concludes that author is presenting theme of hope in all above poems and she is a courageous black woman
