

Killing Spindler

An aerial photograph of a small village nestled in a valley, surrounded by green hills. The image has a radial blur effect, with lines radiating outwards from the center, creating a sense of motion or a 'spindling' effect. The village is small and clustered, with a few buildings visible. The surrounding landscape is lush and green, with some yellow patches of flowers or fields. The sky is a pale, hazy blue.

new approach to anti submarine warfare was called for and Convoy was the leading contender There were many objections to protecting shipping in this way some ideological but most practical a workable system for example effectively required state control of both shipping and distribution networks something inconceivable in normal circumstances However Convoy had powerful advocates including the Prime Minister Lloyd George who later claimed he had personally forced its adoption on a reluctant Admiralty This self serving political myth cast Jellicoe as an opponent of Convoy nothing could be further from the truth As both Jellicoe and Sims understood the key requirement was a rapid increase in the number of destroyers for escort duties America provided them the first arriving in Queenstown Ireland on 4 May and by June 46 were operating in European waters This was the first step in an Anglo American campaign that gradually brought the U boat threat under control and led to its ultimate defeat This book takes a fresh look at the undersea war as a whole and all the complex factors bearing on the campaign only one of which was convoy Its analysis is original and its conclusions thought provoking an important contribution to the naval history of the Great War The Review of English Studies ,1928 Includes a section Summary of periodical literature Business Week ,1997 Annual Report of the Commissioner of Railroads and Telegraphs Ohio.
