J., Sekgala, M., Shikwambana, S., Tshikolomo, K., Nevhutanda, S., Matlala, B., Manyama, D., 2017-06-08 A survey of 76 public smallholder irrigation schemes in the Limpopo Province was jointly conducted by the International Water Management Institute (IWMI), Department of Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries (DAFF) South Africa and the Limpopo Department of Agriculture and Rural Development (LDARD) as part of the Revitalization of Smallholder Irrigation in South Africa project. About one third of those schemes was fully utilized, one third partially utilized and one third not utilized in the winter of 2015; however, no single socioeconomic, physical, agronomic and marketing variable could explain these differences in utilization. Sale, mostly for informal markets, appeared to be the most important goal. Dilapidated infrastructure was the most important constraint cited by the farmers. The study recommends ways to overcome the build-neglect-rebuild syndrome and to learn lessons from informal irrigation, which covers an area three to four times as large as public irrigation schemes in the province.

Drip Irrigation for Agriculture Jean-Philippe Venot, Marcel Kuper, Margreet Zwarteveen, 2017-07-06 Initially associated with high-tech irrigated agriculture, drip irrigation is now being used by a much wider range of farmers in emerging and developing countries. This book documents the enthusiasm, spread and use of drip irrigation systems by smallholders but also some disappointments and disillusion faced in the global South. It explores and explains under which conditions it works for whom and with what effects. The book deals with drip irrigation behind the scenes, showcasing what largely remain untold stories. Most research on drip irrigation uses plot-level studies to demonstrate the technology's ability to save water or improve efficiencies and uses a narrow and rather prescriptive engineering or economic language. They tend to be grounded in a firm belief in the technology and focus on the identification of ways to improve or better realize its potential. The technology also figures prominently in poverty alleviation or agricultural modernization narratives, figuring as a tool to help smallholders become more innovative, entrepreneurial and business-minded. Instead of focusing on its potential, this book looks at drip irrigation in use making sense of what it does from the perspectives of the farmers who use it and of the development workers and agencies policymakers private companies local craftsmen engineers extension agents or researchers who engage with it for a diversity of reasons and to realize a multiplicity of objectives While anchored in a sound engineering understanding of the design and operating principles of the technology the book extends the analysis beyond engineering and hydraulics to understand drip irrigation as a sociotechnical phenomenon that not only changes the way water is supplied to crops but also transforms agricultural farming systems and even how society is organized The book provides field evidence from a diversity of interdisciplinary case studies in sub Saharan Africa the Mediterranean Latin America and South Asia thus revealing some of the untold stories of drip irrigation

Joint ventures in the Flag Boshielo Irrigation Scheme, South Africa van Koppen, Barbara, Tapela, B. N., Mapedza, Everisto, 2018-01-31

Others look at how gender and children's issues should be mainstreamed into adaptation planning itself and others describe how tools can be applied and finance delivered for effective mainstreaming This book was published as a special issue of Climate and Development
