Handbook on the Geographies of Power Mat Coleman, John Agnew, 2018-07-27 The so called spatial turn in the social sciences means that many researchers have become much more interested in what can be called the spatialities of power or the ways in which power as a medium for achieving goals is related to where it takes place Most famous authors on the subject such as Machiavelli and Hobbes saw power as entirely equivalent to domination exercised by some over others Though this meaning is hardly redundant understandings of power have become more multidimensional and nuanced as a result of the spatial turn Much recent writing in human geography for example has rigorously extended use of the term power beyond its typical understanding as a resource that pools up in some hands and some places to a medium of agency that has different effects depending on how it is deployed across space and how actors cooperate or not to give it effect To address this objective the book is organized thematically into four sections that cover the main areas in which much of the contemporary work on geographies of power is concentrated bodies economy environment and energy and war The

with an interest in governance in its widest sense Growth and Welfare in Advanced Capitalist Economies Anke Hassel, Bruno Palier, 2021-01-14 Growth and Welfare in Advanced Capitalist Economies takes stock of the major economic challenges that advanced industrial democracies have faced since the early 1990s and the responses by governments to them It has three goals firstly to further our understanding of how political economies have transformed over the past decades secondly to analyse the contribution of governments to these changes by looking at their growth strategies and thirdly to highlight and analyse the role of the reforms of welfare systems in this transformative change In a nutshell this book maps and provides general understanding of the evolution of growth regimes in advanced capitalist countries It identifies five main growth regimes in contemporary advanced capitalist economies three export led and two domestic demand led ones To do so the book combines a supply side approach to economic growth as advocated by the Varieties of Capitalism Literature OUP 2001 with a demand side perspective as the recent discussion on growth models has exemplified It argues that all political economies consist of growth regimes which are based on a set of institutions that shape the supply side of the economy as well as on demand drivers such as government spending and private consumption Both supply and demand are heavily shaped by the welfare state which provides for skills through education systems and stimulates demand through high social spending and private pension funds The book focuses on the analysis of welfare reforms as growth strategies pursued by governments in an era characterised by financialization and the rise of the knowledge economy New Frontiers in Interregional Migration Research Bianca Biagi, Alessandra Faggian, Isha Rajbhandari, Viktor A. Everyday Mobile Belonging Kirsty Finn, Mark Holton, 2019-06-13

This book presents a framework for a new kind of thinking about student mobilities and belonging which foregrounds the everyday and rhythmic dimensions of students' experiences. Using case studies from a variety of UK higher education contexts, this book develops the concepts of everyday mobilities and mobile belongingness. The authors draw on key ideas about the changing characteristics of UK higher education and of student belonging, exploring the central themes of the sensory, affective and emotional aspects of student mobilities, contested and mobile belongings, and the significance of everyday life to bring a new dimension to the literature on inter and intra national student mobilities. This is achieved through an examination of the innovative ways in which social science methods have been reimagined through mobility with a specific focus on youth and education. Kirsty Finn and Mark Holton bring together theory and research from the fields of education studies, geography and sociology and combine this with a discussion of rich empirical data from three UK based research projects to set out an explicitly mobility centred approach to 21st century student experiences. The findings can be recognised globally because they synthesise debates about travel and transport, students' sense of place and feelings of belonging, and the interrelationship between physical, social and virtual mobilities that higher education brings together. In doing so, this text offers a coherent and grounded campaign for theory and research within studies of higher education that foreground multiple mobilities and diverse feelings of belonging.
