Hollywood or History? Scott L. Roberts, Charles J. Elfer, 2024-10-01 In response to the limitations associated with teaching through film we sought to develop practical lesson ideas that might bridge gaps between theory and practice and assist teachers endeavoring to make effective use of film in their classrooms One of the more interesting sources of visual media many authors in the previous volumes elected to use as the focus of their lesson plans were cartoons These lesson plans have been some of the more popular in the series and are often easier to adapt for a variety of grade levels In conducting research for this volume we learned that cartoons are an often used media sources in the classroom They have similar strengths and weaknesses in not only the teaching of history but other social studies disciplines as well While in many cases their intended audience is younger children people of all ages enjoy cartoons This makes them useful for teaching students at all grade levels as well as adults as there will be immediate buy in if used as a source of analysis for inquiry based lessons As with live action film we believe cartoons can also serve as a powerful tool in the social studies classroom and if appropriately utilized can foster critical thinking and civic mindedness The College Career and Civic Life C3 framework adopted by the National Council for the Social Studies in 2013 represents a renewed and formalized emphasis on the perennial social studies goals of deep thinking reading and writing The C3 is comprehensive and ambitious Moreover we believe that as teachers endeavor to digest and implement the platform in schools and classrooms across the country the desire for access to structured strategies that lead to more active and rigorous investigation in the social studies classroom will grow increasingly acute Our hope is that the present volume might play a small role in the larger Hollywood or History project of supporting practitioners specifically teachers of preK 12 social studies disciplines by offering a collection of 19 classroom ready lesson designed to foster social studies inquiry through the careful use of selected cartoons

Theatre in a Media Culture Amy Petersen Jensen,2014-11-04 As the media have increasingly become the lens through which we see the world media styles have shaped even the fine arts and contemporary theatre is particularly indebted to mass media's dramatic influence In order to stay culturally and financially viable theatre producers have associated theatrical productions and their promotion with film television and the Internet by adopting new theatrical practices that mirror the form and content of mass communication This work demonstrates how mediatization or the adoption of the semantics and the contexts of mass media has changed the way American theatre is produced performed and perceived Early chapters use works like Robert Wilson's 3D digital opera Monsters of Grace and Thecla Schophorst's digitally animated Bodymaps to demonstrate the shifting nature of live performance Critical analysis of the interaction between the live performer and digital technology demonstrates that the use of media technology has challenged and changed traditional notions of dramatic performance Subsequent discussion sustains the argument that theatre has reconfigured itself to access the economic and cultural power of the media Final chapters consider the extent to which mediatization undermines theatrical authorship and creativity

Leading Learning/Learning Leading: A Retrospective on a Life's Work Robert Starratt,2017-06-26 Internationally recognized for his writing on educational leadership and the ethics of educational leadership Robert J Starratt brings together a thoughtfully crafted selection of his writing representing key aspects of his life and work leading to his current thinking on the convergence of school leadership the professional ethics of educators and the integrity of the teaching learning process This retrospective reveals Starratt's enduring work as probing the foundational intelligibility of the teaching learning process and its connection to human development of both students and teachers It exhibits his efforts to focus the leadership of the teaching learning process on a combination of cognitive insight into the intelligibility of the world affective dwelling in the particulars of that intelligibility and the responsibilities one's relationships with the particular might suggest A new introduction contextualises Starratt's work against key developments in the field The unique collection of chapters develop various themes from human resource development to the complexity of curriculum change and from ethical analysis of school organizational structures to the complex dramas in students personal lives and in the classroom The book chronicles Starratt's contributions to the field and his role as a leading scholar who has played a key part in the development of leadership and ethics in education over the course of his career Leading Learning Learning Leading will be of global interest to education leaders and researchers engaged in the field of educational leadership and ethical education
