Meeting this demand will not be easy as agricultural productivity in SSA remains low and shows slow growth. The vast majority of African smallholder farmers produce low yield food crops using a minimal set of inputs. Inadequate access to improved inputs such as fertilizers presents a major constraint for smallholders. In the region, more nutrients are removed with harvested crops than are applied with fertilizer or manure, resulting in unsustainable soil nutrient depletion. Improved fertilizer use will help to counteract this trend while substantially improving food security. The National Policy on East African Community East African Community, 2015.
