THE 1998-1999 season was the first season in which the number of cases of dengue fever in Singapore increased significantly. The number of cases rose from 1,000 in 1998 to 1,500 in 1999. This increase was due to a combination of factors, including a change in the mosquito population and a change in the human population. The mosquito population increased due to a change in the weather, and the human population increased due to a change in the number of people living in Singapore.

1. The first step is to identify the problem. This involves understanding the current situation and what needs to be changed.
