The 4 Seasons of Marriage Gary Chapman, 2012-08-31. Spring, summer, winter, fall. Marriages are perpetually in a state of transition, continually moving from one season to another, perhaps not annually as in nature but just as certainly and consistently. Sometimes we find ourselves in winter, discouraged, detached, and dissatisfied. Other times we experience springtime with its openness, hope, and anticipation. On other occasions we bask in the warmth of summer, comfortable, relaxed, enjoying life. And then comes fall with its uncertainty, negligence, and apprehension. The cycle repeats itself many times throughout the life of a marriage, just as the seasons repeat themselves in nature. The seasons of marriage come and go. Each one holds the potential for emotional health and happiness, and each one has its challenges. The purpose of this book is to describe these recurring seasons of marriage, help you and your spouse identify which season your marriage is in, and show you how to enhance your marriage in all four seasons.

The 5 Love Languages of Children Gary Chapman, Ross Campbell, 2012-02-01. Does your child speak a different language? Sometimes they waver for your attention, and other times they ignore you completely. Sometimes they are filled with gratitude and affection, and other times they seem totally indifferent. Attitude, behavior, development—everything depends on the love relationship between you and your child. When children feel loved, they do their best. But how can you make sure your child feels loved? Since 1992, Dr. Gary Chapman's best-selling book The 5 Love Languages has helped millions of couples develop stronger, more fulfilling relationships by teaching them to speak each other's love language. Each child too expresses and receives love through one of five different communication styles. And your love language may be totally different from that of your child. While you are doing all you can to show your child love, he may be hearing it as something completely opposite. Discover your child's primary language and learn what you can do to effectively convey unconditional feelings of respect, affection, and commitment that will resonate in your child's emotions and behavior.
