Ends of Empire Jodi Kim,2004 Ends of Empire examines Asian American cultural production and its challenge to the dominant understanding of American imperialism Cold War dynamics and race and gender formation Jodi Kim demonstrates the degree to which Asian American literature and film critique the record of U S imperial violence in Asia and provides a glimpse into the imperial and gendered racial logic of the Cold War She unfolds this particularly entangled and enduring episode in the history of U S global hegemony one that contrary to leading interpretations of the Cold War as a simple bipolar rivalry was significantly triangulated in Asia The Asian American works analyzed here constitute a crucial body of what Kim reveals as transnational Cold War compositions which are at once a geopolitical structuring an ideological writing and a cultural imagining Arguing that these works reframe the U S Cold War as a project of gendered racial formation and imperialism as well as a production of knowledge Ends of Empire offers an interdisciplinary investigation into the transnational dimensions of Asian America and its critical relationship to Cold War history

A Collection of Collections John F. Dilworth II,2022-02-01 A Collection of Collections is a volume of poetry by John F Dilworth II that explores the author s experiences maneuvering through life as a young Black man in America in this tumultuous 21st century Through his poems John motivates people to be passionate about their purpose and open to sharing their perspective He captures the beauty and purpose of people hurting and striving Some of the words may trigger a variety of emotions but that is where the healing can be found

The Children of 1965 Min Hyoung Song,2013-04-15 Since the 1990s a new cohort of Asian American writers has garnered critical and popular attention Many of its members are the children of Asians who came to the United States after the Immigration and Nationality Act of 1965 lifted long standing restrictions on immigration This new generation encompasses writers as diverse as the graphic novelists Adrian Tomine and Gene Luen Yang the short story writer Nam Le and the poet Cathy Park Hong Having scrutinized more than one hundred works by emerging Asian American authors and having interviewed several of these writers Min Hyoung Song argues that collectively these works push against existing ways of thinking about race even as they demonstrate how race can facilitate creativity Some of the writers eschew their identification as ethnic writers while others embrace it as a means of tackling the uncertainty that many people feel about the near future In the literature that they create a number of the writers that Song discusses take on pressing contemporary matters such as demographic change environmental catastrophe and the widespread sense that the United States is in national decline
