Mathematics and Technology Gilles Aldon, Fernando Hitt, Luciana Bazzini, Uwe

Gellert, 2017-04-05 This volume collects most recent work on the role of technology in mathematics education. It offers fresh insight and understanding of the many ways in which technological resources can improve the teaching and learning of mathematics. The first section of the volume focuses on the question how a proposed mathematical task in a technological environment can influence the acquisition of knowledge and what elements are important to retain in the design of mathematical tasks in computing environments. The use of white smart boards, platforms as Moodle, tablets and smartphones have transformed the way we communicate both inside and outside the mathematics classroom. Therefore the second section discusses how to make efficient use of these resources in the classroom and beyond. The third section addresses how technology modifies the way information is transmitted and how mathematical education has to take into account the new ways of learning through connected networks as well as new ways of teaching. The last section is on the training of teachers in the digital era. The editors of this volume have selected papers from the proceedings of the 65th, 66th and 67th CIEAEM conference and invited the correspondent authors to contribute to this volume by discussing one of the four important topics. The book continues a series of sourcebooks edited by CIEAEM, the Commission Internationale pour l'étude et l'amélioration de l'Enseignement des Mathématiques. International Commission for the Study and Improvement of Mathematics Education.

Pathos and Anti-Pathos Tom Vanassche, 2022-12-31 Scholarship often presumes that texts written about the Shoah, either by those directly involved in it or those writing its history, must always bear witness to the affective aftermath of the event: the lingering emotional effects of suffering. Drawing on the History of Emotions and on trauma theory, this monograph offers a critical study of the ambivalent attributions and expressions of emotion and emotionlessness in the literature and historiography of the Shoah. It addresses three phenomena: the metaphorical discourses by which emotionality and the purported lack thereof are attributed to victims and to perpetrators; the rhetoric of affective self-control and of affective distancing in fiction, testimony and historiography; and the poetics of empathy and the status of emotionality in discourses on the Shoah. Through a close analysis of a broad corpus centred around the work of W. G. Sebald, Dieter Schlesak, Ruth Klüger and Raul Hilberg, the book critically contextualises emotionality and its attributions in the post-war era, when a scepticism of pathos coincided with demands for factual rigidity. Ultimately, it invites the reader to reflect on their own affective stances towards history and its commemoration in the twenty-first century.

Contrasting Models of State and School Charles L. Glenn, 2011-03-31 School choice and the forming of citizens for responsible freedom are two of the most hotly debated topics in educational policy. International comparison offers perspective on the effects of alternative policies. This book profiles historically and currently two countries which give strong support to parental choice: The Netherlands and Belgium, and two others that maintain a strong State role in controlling education: Germany and Austria. Charles L. Glenn draws upon Dutch, French and German sources to contrast how the Dutch and Belgians came over the 19th and 20th centuries to entrust education to civil society institutions with strong parental choice while Germany and Austria maintained a predominant State role in education Glenn illuminates the implications of these policies and the dangers that can arise when the State uses popular schooling to shape popular beliefs and loyalties This is essential reading for policy specialists concerned with balancing school autonomy and government oversight and with debates over parental choice of schools

African Philosophy in an Intercultural Perspective Anke Graneß, Edwin Etieyibo, Franz Gmainer-Pranzl, 2022-05-18 African philosophy under the specific conditions of a colonial and postcolonial world is at least since the 20th century if not even earlier inherently intercultural The aim and target of the volume is to reveal interrogate and analyse the intercultural dimension in African philosophy and to critically interrogate the project of an intercultural philosophy from an African perspective This volume is the first publication that explicitly discusses African philosophy as a challenge to the project of intercultural philosophy

Nietzsche on Language, Consciousness, and the Body Christian J. Emden, 2010-10-01 Nietzsche and the philosophy of language have been a well trafficked crossroads for a generation but almost always as a checkpoint for post modernism and its critics This work takes a historical approach to Nietzsche s work on language connecting it to his predecessors and contemporaries rather than his successors Though Nietzsche invited identification with Zarathustra the solitary wanderer ahead of his time for most of his career he directly engaged the intellectual currents and scientific debates of his time Emden situates Nietzsche s writings on language and rhetoric within their wider historical context He demonstrates that Nietzsche is not as radical in his thinking as has been often supposed and that a number of problems with Nietzsche disappear when Nietzsche s works are compared to works on the same subjects by writers of the 18th and 19th centuries Further the relevance of rhetoric and the history of rhetoric to philosophy and the history of philosophy is reasserted in consonance with Nietzsche s own statements and practices Important in this regard are the role of fictions descriptions and metaphor
